Gibson Asks 'Quick Trial' on Boxing Charge

TRUMAN K. GIBSON, JR.

Top Promoter Says He's Innocent In Prize Fighter Extortion Case

CHICAGO — "I am confident I am innocent and will request a speedy trial," said Truman K. Gibson Jr. Wednesday after being ordered to report to the Los Angeles District Court for trial.

He was freed on $5,000 bond.

The indictment under which he was arrested charges: "It was an essential part of the conspiracy that defendant Truman Gibson Jr. would use his power and authority to persuade the victims to accede to the demands of the conspirators for control of prize fighter Don Jordan."

Meanwhile Jordan said he had been unaware of the alleged efforts to gain control of his career.

CHICAGO — Truman K. Gibson Jr., Negro "top man in boxing," was arrested by the FBI at his home here Tuesday following a 10-point indictment handed down by a Federal grand jury in Los Angeles.

Gibson and four other boxing figures were charged with using threats of violence to muscle in on the earnings of world welterweight champion Don Jordan, and to gain control of Jordan's professional activities.

The others nabbed were Frankie Carbo, the "underworld king of boxing"; Frank "Blinky" Palermo, a Philadelphia boxing manager; Joseph De Sica, Los Angeles promoter, and Louis Dragna, described as a West Covina (Calif.) bookmaker.

THE INDICTMENTS CHARGE that the defendants threatened physical harm and violence against Donald Paul Newirth of Covina, Calif., who is Jordan's manager, and Leonard Blakely, also known as Jackie Leonard, a Los Angeles fight promoter.

Palermo extorted $1,725 from Blakely, it is alleged, and Carbo tried to extort the same amount. Palermo and De Sica are accused of trying to force Jordan's manager to agree to a match between Jordan and Garnet "Sugar" Hart.

Gibson is charged with conspiracy in the attempted extortion and control.

The indictment was based on the Federal anti-racketeering act and the criminal code barring extortion by use of interstate communications.

The Justice Department said the roundup was part of a drive against underworld infiltration into boxing.

Promoter Blakely, or Leonard, made public the threats May 20 in testimony before the California Boxing Commission.

FORTY-SEVEN YEAR OLD Gibson, a brilliant lawyer and president of National Boxing Enterprises, Inc., is the only Negro graduate and the founder and chairman of the board of the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Co.

The younger Gibson is a graduate of the University of Chicago with a law degree from the same institution. Many of his friends, who are members of Chicago's business and social elite, still wonder how he happened to find a career in boxing.

During World War II he went to Washington as an assistant to the Secretary of War. He was acting aide to the secretary from February to September, 1943. In 1944 he became a member of the President's Advisory Committee on Universal Military Training, and later he joined the President's advisory group on morals, character development and religion in the Armed Forces.

Too Few Negroes Fully Capable, Educator Feels

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE, Ala. (ANP). Dr. L. H. Foster, president of Tuskegee Institute, called upon members of his faculty to combat an "essentially non-racial" problem in education which threatens the "integrity of the democratic society."

In a faculty-staff dinner address Tuesday, Dr. Foster, beginning his seventh year as Tuskegee president, put the problem to an audience that included 64 new persons and 20 others returning from advanced study.

Dr. Foster avoided pessimism, but faced squarely the educational shortcomings faced by Negro youth. He said:

"In both total quantity and by relative measure, there are not enough Negro youth who are fully capable of discharging their citizenship duties and their responsibilities as members of society. The reality of this inadequacy cannot be wished away. Experience has taught many of us that this sequence—even minimum success based upon average, or normal, competence—is not assured in our society merely because it should be so."

"Unfortunately," he said, "many persons look only at the statistics and use these as an unwarranted excuse to shut the doors of opportunity which should, instead, be open even wider if the status of the Negro and the total society are to advance further."

The younger Gibson is a graduate of the University of Chicago with a law degree from the same institution. Many of his friends, who are members of Chicago's business and social elite, still wonder how he happened to find a career in boxing.

During World War II he went to Washington as an assistant to the Secretary of War. He was acting aide to the secretary from February to September, 1943. ### 30 Teenagers Arrested In Police 'War' on Gangs

In what they termed an all-out effort to curb "potential violence" around the city high schools, Police Chief Robert Riley and Inspector William Hague have assigned Sgt. Oscar Donahue to "clean up" the gangs (both students and non-students) that have been hanging around the schools.

Eleven persons were arrested Monday and 19 more Tuesday and charged with disorderly conduct and violation of a city ordinance prohibiting congregating after officers found them loitering in the 600 block of W. 11th near Attucks. Sgt. Donahue said the "clean up" order came after the department received numerous complaints from school officials and neighborhood merchants.

Although there was no violence in connection with this week's arrests at Attucks, racial altercations reportedly occurred Monday and Wednesday at Tech.

On Monday, according to information received by The Recorder, a group of white "hoodlums" with-out provocation jumped on an unidentified Negro youth. The Negro boy sustained a broken nose in the fracas.

In what was believed a retaliation move, a large group of Negroes invaded the campus Wednesday and jumped a group of white boys.

Police arrived before the altercation could grow to serious proportions. In helping to break up the loitering, all squad car officers have been ordered to notify JAD when large crowds gather near any of the city's high schools.

Parley to Discuss Reorganization of Local Schools

A county convention to discuss the state School Corporation Reorganization Act of 1959, as it relates to Marion County including Indianapolis, will be held in the Criminal Court room on Oct. 1.

Called by Circuit Judge John L. Niblack, the convention will be open to the public. Its purpose is to explain the new law to all township trustees, school board members and residents of the county.

Persons attending will have an opportunity to discuss the Act and advise Judge Niblack in appointing the county committee, according to the law.

Passed by the General Assembly last spring in order to bring about the modernizing of Indiana's school system, the new law is considered highly important by the League of Women Voters and other civic groups.

The possibility of a forward step in race relations at Shortridge high school was seen this week as a popular Negro student was one of four candidates for senior class president.

Fletcher Wiley, outstanding student, athlete and president of the Human Relations Council, was given a good chance of winning since he is widely respected by classmates regardless of color.

Other candidates, according to the Shortridge Daily Echo, are Howard Borin, Martin Clague and Philip Nicely. Elections were to be held Thursday, Sept. 24, in the school lobby.

Suspect Cleared In Hotel Fires

A Negro employee of the Continental Hotel, suspected in connection with a string of fires at the hotel, was cleared last week as police began questioning of another suspect, also an employee at the hotel.

The fires, which drove 450 residents of the hotel from their rooms last week, were believed set for revenge and not to cause serious damage to the fashionable downtown hotel.

Bishop Suggests 'A Little Sugar' In Sermons

By RONALD M. WOODS

Emphasizing the lack of assurance and "spiritual vibrations" in so many messengers today, The Rt. Rev. Joseph Gomez, bishop of the Fourth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, called upon church leaders Sunday to "put a little bit of sugar in their preaching."

In his message to the final session of the 121st Indiana AME conference held at the Murat theater, the Methodist leader stressed the vital responsibility of the ministers to preach the "good news" of the Gospel to the people.

"These people are not interested in politics and philosophies," the bishop said. "They come to our church hungry, dying, bleeding, worn and torn. They need Jesus."

The bishop also warned his ministers against the continued decrease in church membership.

"There are too many rotten, lazy and good for nothing members in the church today," the bishop asserted. "There are lazy and good for nothing ministers and bishops, too."

"This," he continued, "is why church membership is low. We must preach the good news of the Gospel to these people and save their lost souls."

Prior to the bishop's sermon, Dr. R. W. Vance, secretary-treasurer of the AME church, was introduced to the congregation by Bishop Gomez, who referred to him as the man who holds our $3 or $4 million.

Dr. Vance gave a brief report on the budget of the church, and urged the members and delegates to continue to give their wholehearted support in keeping the church on a sound basis.

THE CONFERENCE ADOPTED a resolution urging each minister to "take an active part in securing job opportunities for his people and free them from serfdom by working with any legal and moral group that works for our people and their welfare."

The group also accorded its "deepest gratitude" to Rev. and Mrs. S. D. Hardwick, members and friends of Allen Chapel, host church for their "warm welcome and unforgettable hospitality."

Rev. Arthur L. Jelks, Evansville, was chairman of the resolution committee.

The missionary sermon was delivered by Rev. Ford Gibson, Wallace Community Church, Indianapolis.

Said Rev. Gibson, "Unless man has the moral, ethical and spiritual power to reinforce his character, the temptation for posterity may prove greater than his moral strength, and atomic energy may be unleashed for global destruction."

"Not only are we imperfect in economic, political and social life, but we are imperfect in our religious life. We are spiritually (Continued on Page 7)

Officer Cleared In Death of Greencastle Man

Investigators from the Police Department and Prosecutor's office have found no reason to take action against Officer C. N. Burns, blamed in the Aug. 28 death of a 40-year-old "bully."

Acting Chief of Police Carl Schmidt and Prosecutor Phillip Bayt said their offices plan no further probe of the matter, each expressing complete satisfaction with the coroner's "accidental death" ruling.

Officer Burns and Anthony Miles went to the bus terminal on Aug. 26 to investigate a report of a fight. David E. Carbon, Greencastle, reportedly had molested several persons in the terminal and continued his assaults even after the officers arrived.

According to the police statement, Carbon was under arrest for assault and battery and disorderly conduct when he broke from the arresting officers, took a swing at a bystander, slipped and fell, striking his head on the marble floor.

He died two days later in General Hospital.

A full-scale probe was launched after a witness, Rev. Mozell Sanders, told The Recorder he had seen Burns strike Carbon after daring him to strike a Jack Bridgewater, 43.

THEODORE DICKERSON, 55, 710 Eugene, who also witnessed the altercation said he saw Burns strike Carbon, but said he heard no conversation between the two men. It was Dickerson who called police.

Bridgewater and a third witness, Ervin Stone, 28, 2219 Haines, supported Burns' contention that Carbon simply slipped and fell.

Despite signed statements by two witnesses that the victim was struck by Burns, Inspector Schmidt said Thursday in The Recorder office that he had "no intention of recommending any action" against the officer.

Department rules require that any officer constrained to use force in effecting an arrest must charge the offender with resisting arrest and make a special report to the chief of police.

Nelher Burris nor Miles made any such report until after the probe was ordered. Nor was Carbon charged with resisting.

Man Free 4 Days Arrested Again For Mail Theft

With only four days of freedom behind him, Frank A. Slatter, 28, 319 N. West, was back in jail last week, arrested on a federal warrant charging him with possession of stolen mail.

Slatter, released Sept. 16 from the State Penitentiary, was stopped by Railway Express agents, who became suspicious as he was leaving the S. Capital mail docks with a 54 lb. parcel post package.

The agents reported that he became nervous when they stopped him so they proceeded to examine the package, disclosing 72 pairs of shoes being shipped from New York to Evansville.

While Slatter was being questioned a man, believed to be his accomplice, began running south on Capital. Agents said Slatter refused to identify him.

The suspect had just completed a penal farm term for petit larceny. U.S. Commissioner Edwin Haerle set his bond at $4,000. Slatter faces a maximum of 5 years in prison.

Church and Labor Should Join in 'Rights' Struggle

"Both the church and organized labor are powerful aggregations. They should both channel their power directly to remove what I consider the disgrace of our civilization—the denial of civil rights to minorities, particularly the Negro," Prof. Sanford Cohen of the Butler University economics department said last week.

Professor Cohen addressed a luncheon meeting of the Religion and Labor Foundation at the American Red Cross building.

Rev. Roy Beverly, president of the State Progressive Baptist Convention, was among churchmen introduced. Seward T. Windham, president of the Marion County Central Labor Union, presided.

NAACP and AFL-CIO Split Over Jimcrow in Unions

Stemming from a charge of the NAACP in July that AFL-CIO had failed to stamp out discrimination and segregation in the labor movement, the once warm tie between the two national organizations has been temporarily, or possibly permanently, disconnected.

This split by the two national groups is seen as detrimental to the fight for civil rights. The labor organization has long helped finance the NAACP, and has helped present a common front on civil rights legislation and offered supporting briefs before the Supreme Court in important civil rights cases.

After a meeting on March 6 of AFL-CIO President George Meany, NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins and NAACP Labor Secretary Herbert A. Hill, a joint statement was issued that they had "an amicable and understanding discussion of mutual problems" and would "continue the long-standing co-operative association" on civil rights.

At the recent Urban League convention in Washington the split was brought to light when Charles S. Zimmerman, chairman of the AFL-CIO's civil rights committee, struck out a headline making statements from an unnamed "civil rights organization," easily identifiable as the NAACP.

Zimmerman, who chose the convention of the National Urban League for his blast, charged later that Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, was one with "the passion for being quoted, and for seeing one's name in print... an irresponsible behavior that does nothing to advance the cause of civil rights."

The Urban League, a more conservative Negro-oriented organization in the "rights" field, was highly praised by Zimmerman for "an immense contribution" to Negro progress by working "quietly, discreetly, often with a careful avoidance of publicity."

Federal Narcotics Agents Trap Suspected 'Pushers'

HAMMOND — Falling for a trap set by police and federal narcotics agents in July, James Cromwell Bailey, 33, Gary, was convicted and sentenced in U. S. District Court last week to 20 years on a charge of selling untaxed heroin, and 25 years on a charge of illegally importing heroin.

Bailey was one of 23 alleged dope pushers arrested during a July drive against narcotics traffic in Gary.

Two of the witnesses against Bailey were Anthony D. Johnson, a federal narcotics agent, and Everett Lusk who was a narcotics agent at the time of the raids.

They testified that a three-way deal was engineered to sell narcotics to Johnson. The three people involved allegedly were Bailey, Joseph N. Gillon, 33, and Dorothea Scott, 28.

Gillon and Miss Scott must face charges of selling heroin.

Agent Johnson testified that he had Bailey at 14th and Washington about 6 p. m. on June 24. The agent asked for some "stuff" — heroin — and the two men got in Bailey's car to search for "my boy Joe." This was a reference to Gillon.

They arranged to meet later in the Broadway Lounge. The agent said he gave $35 to Gillon and that Bailey said, "Everything is okay."

A few minutes later at 17th and Massachusetts a tin foil packet containing heroin was given to Gillon by Miss Scott. Then Gillon gave the packet to agent Johnson.

The second witness, agent Leek, described his part in the procedure which was to watch the activities of his co-worker and the alleged narcotic-sellers.

Leek was cross-examined sharply by Defense Attorney Edward Gavies. The attorney tried to establish that Leek was not sure of Bailey's identity during the early portion of the June developments.

Two more of the narcotics figures were found guilty by a jury of selling and importing dope. They are Ellis Robinson, 34, and Robert (Sissy Bob) Taylor, 41.

Robinson and Taylor are awaiting sentence by Judge Luther M. Swygert.

Four other alleged dope-sellers were convicted in the last two weeks and sentenced to long prison terms as the parade of Gary dope-pushers first to U. S. District Court in Hammond and then into federal prisons continued.

Robbery Nets Boys 60 Cents, JAD Trip

Shortly after he reported to police he had been robbed at knife-point by two "teen toughs," a 12-year-old newsboy identified one of his assailants to an accompanying officer when he spotted the youth walking in the 2400 block of Martindale.

William Dawn said he was accosted in the 1700 block of E. 25th. He told officers one of the youths held a knife to his stomach while the other went through his pockets, taking 60 cents.

Troy Phillips, 16, 2440 Sheldon, attempted to escape when officers attempted to talk to him, but was apprehended.

He reportedly admitted his part in the daylight holdup and told police where they could find his companion, James Brown, 16, 2414 Sheldon.

Both youths were arrested and sent to JAD.

Eastsider Shot in Leg Didn't Even Know It

A 42-year-old Eastside man, after being treated for a gunshot wound in the leg, told investigating officers he didn't know who shot him or even that he had been shot.

Eddie L. Poston, 2051 Sheldon was taken to Methodist hospital Saturday afternoon by John Turney, 1332 N. Missouri and Charles Smith, 31, 1856 Highland.

The pair said Poston stopped them in the 1300 block of Roosevelt and asked if they would take him to a hospital because his leg was bleeding.

Poston was treated for a .22-caliber bullet wound in the calf of his right leg.

MOTHER'S CHILDREN SAFE AFTER 2 NEAR-TRAGEDIES

After she went to the home of her grandmother to report that her seven-year-old daughter was missing, a young Eastside mother returned home just in time to rescue two more daughters from their blazes.

Mrs. Doris J. Means, 919 E. 25th, said she went to 2421 Guilford to phone police and report that her daughter, DeLisa, had not returned home from School No. 29.

Mrs. Means rushed into the blazing house and carried Tawana, 11 months, and LaNetta, 3, to safety.

Firemen said the blaze had apparently started when an oil stove exploded.

During the excitement another daughter, Mary J. Blackwell, 14, located the missing DeLisa at 25th and Guilford.

Little Rock Bomber Draws Five Years

LITTLE ROCK (ANP) — J. D. Sims, a 35-year-old truck driver was sentenced to five years in prison last Friday and fined $500 for his part in the bombings of Labor Day which rocked the city and damaged the school board building, a city-owned station wagon of Fire Chief Gann Nalley, and the business office of Mayor Werner C. Knopp.

Sims refused counsel and pleaded guilty to a charge of dynamiting the school board building.

Circuit Judge William J. Kirby imposed the maximum sentence after Sims asked for "mercy of the court," saying, "This court will have to mercy on you."

The other four men involved in the bombings, will face trial in October and November. They have pleaded innocent to the bombings.

Although about 90 white boys and girls at Central wore black clothing to school as a protest over the expansion of integration, a planned walkout by white students failed as three more Negroes started classes. Only three students, two girls and a boy, walked out when the Negroes entered.

Woman Arrested At Airport With $1,200 in Heroin

SHADDRIC HARPER

Acting on a tip that a "large shipment" was due in from Chicago, Detective Sgts. William Owens and Robert Keithley staked out at Wier Cook airport early Tuesday morning and arrested a 27-year-old "known dope addict" as she entered the terminal with $1,200 worth of uncut heroin concealed in her purse.

The detectives also arrested a 30-year-old parolee who was waiting in the airport for the plane's arrival.

Mrs. Hilda Coleman, who gave her address as 428 Harvard, was described by police as having a "habit" demanding 30 capsules a day (at $3.00 apiece). The heroin about one-half ounce, was wrapped in two small packages.

The man identified as Shaddric Harper, also of the Harvard address, was on parole from the State Reformatory. He had been sentenced on a narcotics conviction.

The pair became "sick" and had to be taken to General Hospital shortly after they were jailed.

Sgt. Owens, in a telephone conversation with a Recorder reporter described Harper as a "small-time pusher." He said the Coleman woman had been making regular trips to Chicago for "buys" during the past four or five months.

"There is a lot of money in that narcotics business," Sgt. Owens said, "but they (Harper and Mrs. Coleman) 'shot-up' most of their profits."

The detective said they had been aware of the operation for some time, but had been unable to find out when the "stuff" was brought in.

Mrs. Coleman and Harper were charged with violation of the 1935 Narcotics Act. When they appeared in Municipal Court, the case was continued until Sept. 25, and bonds were set at $3,000.

Because she brought the heroin across a state line, a federal warrant, charging her with concealment of heroin while knowing it was illegal contraband, will be sworn out against the Coleman woman, John Wilkie, federal narcotics agent, said Wednesday.

If convicted she faces a minimum sentence of five years in a federal prison.

NEW YORKER WOUNDED By Cop Gets $60,000

NEW YORK, N. Y. (ANP) — Justice moves very slowly, especially when a man is shot by an off-duty policeman who has been drinking.

This week Raymond Burns, 53, who has been crippled since being accidentally shot by Cornelius Ryan, ex-patrolman, white, 32, back in April of 1953, was awarded $60,000, which was scaled down from the $250,000 originally sought, from the City of New York.

As for Ryan, he was dismissed from the force and received a suspended sentence after Burns interceded in his behalf.

After the award, about 40 percent of which will go to Burns' counsel, the 53-year-old man who has been unable to work since the incident, told the press he would rather have the use of his legs than the money.

Unitarians Reject Move To Boycott Riviera Club

By CHARLES S. PRESTON

The congregation of one of the city's most "liberal" churches on Sunday reaffirmed a decision to hold a meeting in a "white Gentiles only" social club.

By an overwhelming vote the congregation of All Souls Unitarian Church, which recently moved from a downtown location to a new building at 5301 E. 36th, upheld the church board's decision to hold a meeting at the Riviera Club.

The club, at 5640 N. Illinois, allegedly bars Negroes and Jews (with a few reported exceptions in the latter case) from membership. However, all will be permitted to attend on the night of the Unitarians' meeting to launch a fall fund drive.

Sunday's vote rejected a motion by Mrs. J. K. Bailey, chairman of the church's Human Relations Committee, to change the place of meeting from the Riviera Club to the integrated Indiana State Teachers Association building.

Thirty-five members voted for the motion. The vote against it was overwhelming and the chairman, Dr. Robert D. Arnold, dispensed with a count.

AN INTRA-CHURCH struggle over the question had gone on all summer. Following a farewell dinner at the Riviera Club for the former pastor, Rev. Jack Mendelsohn, the Human Relations Committee sparked a move for the church to bypass segregating institutions in the future.

A resolution to this effect was passed by the Church Council with only one dissenting vote. However, the Church Board later reversed the Council and voted to go back to the Riviera Club.

The Human Relations Committee then appealed to the congregation, calling a special meeting by petition. They said a "church which itself does not discriminate should not patronize a club that does. A committee member, Norman B. Gesner, even reserved the ISTA, just in case.

AT SUNDAY'S MEETING Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Kathleen Gesner spoke against going to the Riviera. Board member James Barnhart and Rev. John G. MacKinnon, new pastor of the church, urged defeat of the resolution. Rev. MacKinnon, who is nationally known for his record in race relations, said the question was one of the "method" of bringing about integration. He asserted it might do more good than harm for an integrated group to meet at the Riviera.

Meanwhile Rev. Mendelsohn, now pastor of the Arlington Street Unitarian Church in Boston, had informed committee members by letters that if present he would oppose returning to the Riviera. However, he forbade use of his letter in connection with the congregational discussion.

ALL SOULS IS not the only liberal Indianapolis church to have trouble with the race question since "moving North."

First Friends Church, now at 3030 Kessler Boulevard, East Drive, has been stymied for more than a year over the question of admitting a Negro family, according to members of the congregation.

Atty. Mahala Dickerson, already a Quaker, applied to transfer her membership and those of her sons from Washington, D. C., to the local meeting many months ago. A strong dispute arose within the congregation of First Friends and the family had not been admitted at last report.

Woman Attacked By Friend's Lover

An Eastside woman reported to police last week that she was attacked in her home by a man brought there by her girlfriend.

The woman, 38, said that Paul Hilliard, 34, 722 W. 30th, threw her on the couch and started kissing on her when her girlfriend left to make a phone call. She said he committed oral sodomy on her after he ripped off her underclothes.

She pleaded with him to stop because her husband would kill her if he should come in and find them. After the girlfriend returned the victim left to call police, she reported.

Hilliard was arrested at the East-side address on a preliminary rape charge.

African Native Is 6-Week Guest Of Flanner House

An African native is in Indianapolis as guest of Flanner House and the Board for Fundamental Education.

Zerubbabeli Hosea Kwamya Bigirwenkya, from Masaka, Uganda, is scheduled to end his six-week visit on Nov. 6.

He was graduated with an A.B. degree in his native country and later did a year's additional study at the Institute of Education, London University.

His main interests are municipal governments, community development and the Boy Scouts.

To make his visit valuable, Mr. Bigirwenkya will want to see social agencies in action, visit schools, churches and observe the activities of Indiana farmers.

Arrangements for his tour of this country were made by the National Social Welfare Assembly, International Exchange Project, New York.

Registration 'Up' At Ind. Central

The Evening Division of Indiana Central College reported this week that its registration of students is running considerably higher than last year.

All indications are that 150 percent increase in enrollment will be experienced. Registration is still being conducted and interested students may enroll at any time prior to the end of the second week of the semester, Sept. 26.

Three additional sections of classes have been opened up as a result of heavy enrollments. Section II of elementary accounting I will be offered at the same time as was scheduled. Section II of English composition I will be offered on Tuesday evenings from 8:15 to 9:55, and Section II of Old Testament will be taught by Dr. James Weber on Thursday evenings from 6:20 to 8:00.

He was graduated from Jordan in 1958 and has also completed residential requirements for a master's degree.

A talented musician and director, he has served as cantor at Beth-El Jewish Temple and director of the choir of Our Savior Lutheran; First Baptist, North Indianapolis, and Trinity CME churches.

He is married to the former Betty Caldwell of Indianapolis.

'Muslim' Leader Disavows 'Black Supremacy' Doctrine

Strongly disagreeing with the Negroes and whites who are spreading the word that Elijah Muhammad and his "Muslims" are teaching "black supremacy" and "white hate", Malcolm X, a New York leader of the religious group, declared last week: "We don't discriminate against whites. We teach black heritage, not black supremacy or white hate. But there is no white man a Muslim can trust."

Malcolm X, whose recent trip to Africa aroused considerable comment in the weekly and daily press, causing numerous speculations over whether or not he visited Mecca, said that the Muslims' leader, Muhammad, has been "seriously misquoted" as being a preacher of hate and black supremacy.

"HIS CRITICS have twisted his teachings," he declared, "so as to arouse public sentiment against Mr. Muhammad."

The Muslims insist that what

A. P. Randolph, Labor Leader Suggests 'Rights' Resolution

Ralph Harris Is Voice Instructor In Flint Schools

By SAMUEL P. PERRY JR. (For Associated Negro Press)

SAN FRANCISCO — A Phillip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and a vice-president of the AFL-CIO has framed a resolution on the equal rights issue for the AFL-CIO conference here.

Randolph's resolution vigorously dealt with the issue of all-white union officials who, in the past, union locals, an issue which is a real "hot potato" for union officials who, in the past, have claimed that they have tried to make the all-white locals "see the light" of union democracy.

This year Randolph is more specific than ever. He has given a six-month deadline for the 200,000-member Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the 87,000-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to eliminate the "all-white" clauses from their constitutions.

Otherwise, in the strong language of Randolph's resolution, the two unions will be ousted from the Federation.

The president of the Sleeping Car Porters will also introduce a companion resolution emphasizing the dissatisfaction of the group with the AFL-CIO Civil Rights Committee and its failure to implement the principles so vigorously supported by the federation — an inversion of time.

However, the fact should not be forgotten that four other railroad unions (Railway Clerks, Telegraphers, Carmen and Switchmen) have already eliminated the all-white clauses from their constitutions.

Indications are, from a realistic point of view, that the 900 delegates to the convention will hardly order the purge of the two unions.

Randolph hopes to get a roll-call vote on the controversial issue which would force the nation's union leaders to stand up and be counted for or against integrated unionism.

He was graduated from Jordan in 1958 and has also completed residential requirements for a master's degree.

A talented musician and director, he has served as cantor at Beth-El Jewish Temple and director of the choir of Our Savior Lutheran; First Baptist, North Indianapolis, and Trinity CME churches.

Clubs Would Give Negro's Viewpoint In Rights Struggle

RICHMOND, Va. (ANP)—Dr. Gordon B. Hancock, former professor at Virginia Union University and for more than 25 years pastor of Moore Street Baptist Church, recently suggested that Negroes organize publicity clubs that will give the public the Negro side of the current struggle for social equality and civil rights.

The timeliness of this suggestion is evidenced by a recent editorial in the Richmond Times-Dispatch under the title "Dixie's Case Getting Across."

The writer is happy that the South is getting its propaganda across since Sen. Hiram L. Fong from Hawaii has cautioned that Congress go slow in any civil rights legislation because the South's way of life can't be changed overnight.

Mentioned also in the editorial was Rep. D. K. Inouye, "the much-decorated Japanese Nisei," who is credited with saying:

"I believe the people of the South have a story to tell and I would like to listen to their story. I don't believe integration in itself is a solution to the problem of civil rights."

Dr. Hancock said Negroes should organize to counteract this false propaganda. He suggests, for example, that individuals should write letters to their newspapers setting forth the Negro's position in the current struggle.

NAACP Pledges Support in Delinquency, Crime Fight

NEW YORK — The NAACP has pledged its "continuing support of every constructive effort" to eliminate the causes of and curb juvenile delinquency and adult crime.

A policy statement adopted by the association's board of directors at its regular monthly meeting here on Sept. 14 further called upon its branches throughout the country "to cooperate with other responsible citizens and agencies in this vital task."

The board statement "unequivocally condemns criminal acts and other violations of law and order committed by anti-social individuals."

Moreover, it "recognizes that the motivation for some misdeeds is rooted in a background of social disabilities and economic inequities which foment damaging psychological frustrations."

"Not only justly administered action against offenders, but also a massive attack by the total community on the conditions which produce anti-social behavior are required to "stem the rising tide" of delinquency and crime, the NAACP board declared.

"This is a responsibility shared by all elements of the community, one from which no segment of the population is exempt," the statement asserts.

"GOVERNMENTAL AND PRIVATE agencies and individual citizens alike have legitimate roles to play in community-wide efforts to protect life and property, to uphold the highest standards of public morality, to safeguard the rights and privileges of citizens, and to eradicate the economic and social cesspools which breed crime."

Asserting that regard for law and order and respect for the enforcement of law are essential in any community, the statement also indicates that a "regard for the rights of citizens by law enforcement officers" is equally essential.

"Only in a society in which these mutual responsibilities are recognized and upheld can effective action be taken to reduce delinquency and crime," it states.

"Mass hysteria will not do the job," the statement continues. "Neither will disregard of citizens' constitutional rights; nor large-scale indiscriminate arrests of alleged offenders against whom there is no incriminating evidence."

Pointing to the rate in delinquency rates in other cities and countries, the statement expresses the conviction that "here, as elsewhere, crime and delinquency will be curbed on a basis of an understanding of the causes and a concerted effort to eliminate or minimize the social, economic and psychological origins of anti-social behavior."

Voice of the Eastside

By MARY P. McGUIRE

"All Needful Supplies by Christ (But my God shall supply every need of yours according to His riches in glory in Christ Jesus—Philippians 4:19)." This was the subject and text used by Rev. J. H. Crowley, Fort Wayne, Indiana Baptist state field worker, Sunday at New Bethel Baptist Church.

Many of us fail to trust God for our every need (not just what we want). We don't get answers to many of our prayers because we do not need the things we ask for. Try God when you are really up against it, and see for yourself that He will hear you. He will.

Rev. C. Short will be principal speaker for the General District speaker for the Central District Star Baptist Church, 30th and Boulevard, for the group's annual union.

All men are expected; ladies are not barred.

In the mailbag comes news from the family of Little Miss Brenda J. McGee, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGee, 2946 N. Temple. She has returned from a two-month visit with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Warren McGee.

She is the granddaughter of Winston Moran of Chicago, formerly of this city.

Mrs. Libby Hamilton, Springfield, N. C., reports a lovely time with her sister, Mrs. Edna Dobbins, 1638 N. Arsenal. The sisters, both seamstresses, were highly entertained by friends and relatives.

Mrs. Hamilton returned home last week.

Speaking of Mrs. Dobbins, she has moved from the Arsenal address, the homestead of your scribe, to smaller quarters in the 2300 block of N. Kenwood.

We are sure the neighbors will miss her, especially The Ole Scribe.

Many of my friends seem surprised not to find me in the hospital after hearing a report that an elevator in the Continental Hotel fell with me in it.

The elevator car did not fall, but just stopped, I got out unhurt. And as to the fire which started in my car five days later on Sept. 23, I had gotten out of the elevator before the fire started.

I am still a part-time operator, trusting a God Who takes care of his own.

According to word from Portland, Ore., my sister-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Collins, is in the hospital for minor surgery. In addition to being a great Gospel singer, Mrs. Collins is church reporter for the largest Negro newspaper in Portland.

I note The Voice, a new paper published in Houston, Tex., is doing a fine job for the National Baptist Brotherhood Union of the National Baptist Convention of America.

Zerah Sweeney of Mt. Olive Baptist Church is state president.

Their's will be the difficult but oh-so-delightful task of choosing one of these lovely lassies for "Miss Frontier of 1959" honors. Pictured in the center is Miss Charlene Cox, runner-up in last year's competition.

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC! The popular Three Souls, pictured above, and Roy Hamilton, crooning baritone, will provide the music for the Frontiers' annual Artists and Models Ball and Revue on Friday night, Oct. 2, at the Indiana Roof. Both the Indianapolis group and Hamilton have promised to perform their most popular hit tunes.

Frontiers' Artists and Models Ball to Open Social Season

The Frontiers' charity Artists and Models Ball and Revue, according to tradition, will open the season to Indianapolis lovers of entertainment, Friday, Oct. 2 at the Indiana Roof Ball Room.

This year's production which has been in preparation for several months, will have the spectacular beauty and glamour that has made the Artists and Models unique and so well received by the public.

Roy Hamilton's personal appearance promises many pleasant moments. Numerous advance requests for his favorite hit ballads, including "Ebbtide" and "Time Marches On," have already been received.

Lending support to the program are the "Three Souls," instrumental group whose popularity has reached favorable national recognition.

Rounding out the revue will be the precision chorus line "On The Town," the revealing of the "Dream Girl," and "On The Riviera" beach scene. There will also be the presentation of the beautiful and select models whose costumes have been described as "magnificent," "beautiful" and "breath-taking." They will be competing for the "Miss Frontier of 1959" Title.

Due to the expected sellout of both reserve seats and general admission tickets, doors will open at 8 p. m. Curtain time is at 9. Advance tickets may be purchased at the Fall Creek Parkway Branch YMCA, Paris Beauty Salon, Northwestern Paint Store and James' Pharmacy.

Tom Thumb Wedding Set for Sunday at 3

Believing that children are natural impersonators because of their great imagination concerning adult affairs, the Ladies' chorus of Mt. Zion Baptist Church has garnered some of the more imaginative youngsters of the church and completed plans for a "Tom Thumb" wedding.

The program will start Sunday afternoon at 3, and there will be no admittance after 3:15. Tickets are available from any member of the chorus.

Committee workers include Mesdames Vernice Ferguson, general chairman; Clo Woolridge, decorations; Mattie Ellis, finance; Elizabeth Sims, refreshments; Harry Wallace, publicity; and Odell Gray, president.

Rev. R. T. Andrews is pastor.

Lillian Chestnut's Beauty Box Sponsors Seminar, Workshop

In keeping with the trend of the day and the versatility of the operators at Chestnut's Beauty Box, Mrs. Lillian Robinson, of national fame, was flown in from Chattanooga, Tenn., for a seminar and workshop.

The Beauty Box was all agog over the many new trends introduced by Mrs. Robinson.

Permanent waving for straight hair was high on the agenda as was wet setting on hair which was previously done with irons.

Some of the styles encountered were, the "French Roll," "The Bridgette," the "Wing-top" and the "Oriental Flare."

While in the city Mrs. Robinson, whose husband, Clarence, is principal of a junior high school in Chattanooga, stayed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roby, and on Monday had dinner with the operators at the Student Union Building of the Indiana University Medical Center, as guest of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Chestnut.

Operators at Chestnut's are Ruth Bynote, Marie Johnson, Maeola Roby, Stella Dumas and Lillian Chestnut, all of whom are expert in permanent waving, ratin tress, Luxire Silk, hair coloring, hair shaping and scalp treatments. The shop is located at 843 W. Ninth.

Ex-Debutantes Organize League, Choose Officers

A meeting and social hour was held last week in the home of Mrs. Winifred Davis for the hostesses who will serve at the 1960 Debutante Ball to be sponsored by Alpha Alpha Chapter of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority.

Like the 1961 charter members of the National and International Junior League who were Debutantes, the young ladies decided that they would do something more than enjoy themselves. As a result, the National Debutante League was organized and officers were elected.

Mrs. Barbara Walker Mills was elected chapter president; Miss Delores Seath, vice-president; Miss Charlene Cox, secretary; Miss Patricia Cox, recording secretary, and Miss Sylvia Freeman, treasurer.

Others elected were Miss Betty Beane, dean of provincial members or pledges, and Mrs. Marcia Howard Newman, journalist. Mrs. Winifred Davis and Mrs. Corean Hawkins will serve as advisors.

Mrs. Marcia Wimberly and the Misses Freeman and Seath will serve on the laws and by-laws committee.

Other young ladies included as charter members are the Misses Ann Hines, Betty Jo Radcliff, and Rita Hines and Mrs. Sandra Hayes Jackson.

Invitations will be sent to Debutante ball sponsors throughout the country to become affiliated with the newly organized national organization.

The next meeting will be held on Sunday, Sept. 27, at the home of the president, Mrs. Barbara Walker Mills.

Chatting with the FAC

By ELSA JACKSON

Well, it's finally here — "T. Day" at the club home. Travelers from several cities will converge here, all bound for the FAC Home, 2309 N. Capitol, and laden with articles, their contributions to the mammoth exhibit.

Dinner, prepared by a special committee, will be served from 5 to 7. A large number of advance reservations have already been made.

The travelogue, scheduled to follow the evening meal, will review three tours: the Tulip Festival in Holland, Mich., last May; the educational tour of Mexico, August, and the Labor Day weekend trip to Niagara Falls.

The travelogue will be highlighted by Mrs. Catherine Taylor, Louisville, the only speech therapist of color in the public schools of Kentucky. Another highlight will be beautiful color movies to be shown by President Starling W. James and Fred Quarles.

You certainly won't want to miss this fitting climax to the summer season. And since there is no charge, you'd better come early.

Guests will enjoy Mexican refreshments.

Mrs. Emma McKnight, chairman of the FAC tea set for Sunday, Oct. 25, is asking those who plan to share tables to make reservations as soon as possible.

Cash prizes will be awarded again this year to the three tables deemed outstanding for their beauty, simplicity and originality.

Members of the Cheer Fund Committee recently visited Mrs. Nora Hector and Mrs. Lillian Goen's husband, both of whom are ill. Both are members of the FAC and each was presented with a cash donation by Mrs. Teresa Sanders, committee chairman.

In answer to the many queries as to where the FAC's educational tour will be next year, Mr. S. W. James will make the announcement at Friday's travelogue.

Mrs. Charlotte Hill, 1051 Brooks (Campus Apartments), was hostess to the Puella Amica club on last Saturday night. Mrs. Hill was assisted by Mrs. Anna Bell Williams.

A delicious buffet dinner was served.

Prizes were won by Miss Carrie Beasley, Mrs. Dorothy Green and Mrs. Margaret Edwards.

Mrs. Frances Walker, 2539 Columbia, will be hostess for the next meeting, assisted by Mrs. Lenora Maholland.

Mrs. Nina Brown, vice-president and reporter for the Puella Amica club, is very happy to have her son Airman 2/c Eugene Brown home on leave from Fairbanks, Alaska.

He will leave Oct. 23 for Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Mrs. Naomi Clay and members of her Rebecca Sunday school class entertained Mrs. Rose Ellen Thomas with a going-away party on Monday night.

Mrs. Thomas will be leaving soon for Italy to be with her son, Capt. Myron Thomas, and his family.

I hear the Twelve-Mo club had a nice attendance for their Erskine Hawkins dance at Westlake last week.

Have you been to the new Fall Creek YMCA yet? You're certainly missing a treat if you haven't.

Mrs. Helen Perkins is improving nicely at home. Mrs. Faustina Pryor, who has been on the sick list for several weeks, is well again and able to be up and about.

DR. AND MRS. THOMAS FETE SON ON BIRTHDAY

Dr. and Mrs. E. P. Thomas treated their son, Leland Mills, to a party on his seventh birthday last week.

Phyllis Wheatley Y.W.C.A. to be Scene Of Sidney Smith's "September Song"

Model-Producer Sydney Smith revealed this week that the much-publicized "September Song" style revue and jazz show will be presented in the gymnasium of the Phyllis Wheatley YWCA instead of the Fall Creek "Y" as previously announced.

The entire gymnasium will be decorated in fall decor for the gala affair.

All stage lights, spots and scenery will be furnished by two major downtown department stores.

The style show, set for Sunday, 4-7, is the last affair scheduled for the YWCA before its close, thus providing an additional "sentimental reason" for a large segment of the Indianapolis public to attend the show.

The Three Souls, popular recording artists, will be the featured performers, and Burnetta Sloss Tanner is featured model. She will be wearing a complete new wardrobe.

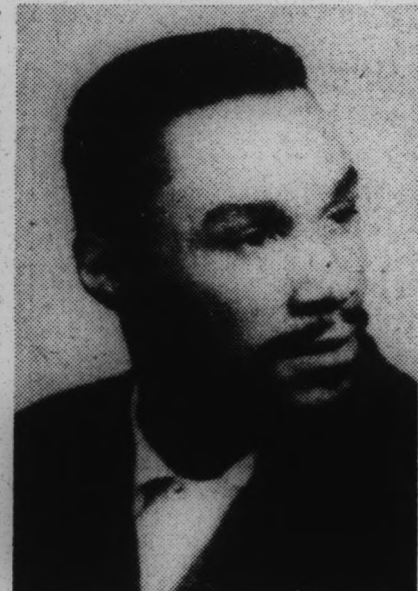

Mrs. Tanner is scheduled to go out of town on several modeling engagements starting a week after Sunday's show.

The producer, Mr. Smith, says all his models have pledged to model as never before, and promises this production will be the "most beautiful yet."

Melvin Keller will display a complete wardrobe of the very latest in Continental attire from Jacobs Brothers' Men's Wear, and Franklin Terrell, along with the producer, will don many of the smart Italian imports, including everything from rain-wear to after-five apparel.

Elinora Starks will show her selection of styles for tall girls, and Arlene (the Miss Blue of Speight's beauty salon) is expected to be equally stunning.

Other models include Lucille Maggard, Ernestine Jackson, Carol Goins, Helen Davis, Edna Barnett, Mary Thomas, Elsie Chapman and Priscilla Stuart.

MELVIN KELLER

Wilma Burris will display a special hair style created by Myrtle Brooks.

Everett Green, popular baritone, will sing, as will Renee Sanders, whose repertoire includes such favorites as "Porgy," "My Funny Valentine," and "Broken-Hearted Melody."

The Dancing Dolls have developed a series of new routines especially for the production and will be featured dancers along with Fran and Pat of the Afro-Cuban school.

The previously announced "Miss Bronze Indianapolis" contest has been canceled, Mr. Smith revealed, and all efforts centered on making the revue a real masterpiece.

As a special treat, the audience will enjoy hors-d'oeuvres of caviar, imported sardines and select meats.

Reserved seats can still be obtained by calling Mrs. Barbara Smith at ST. 7-1187 or Mrs. Helen Brawley at ME. 4-2478. Tickets are on sale at the Lyric record shop, Indianapolis Recorder, Tuff Mopp barber shop and Edna T's, Gladys', Sunshine, Mimi's and Georgia Walker's beauty salons.

Corvettes Full of Excitement Over 'Autumn Showcase' Affair

Madison's Club Eureka has completed plans for its Emancipation celebration Saturday night at the Madison Armory, beginning at 9. Music will be provided by the President's band, a talented group of musicians now touring the Midwest.

It has been an annual custom to schedule the celebration for Sept. 22, but circumstances forced a break in that tradition.

The board of directors of the Broadway Community Center has announced its regular meeting schedule the last Tuesday in each month, beginning at 7:30.

Members of the L'Esprit club and their families motored to Cincinnati on Sunday where they spent an enjoyable day at the zoo.

The wives treated themselves to a meal they had no part in preparing, thanks to their husbands, and the children made the most of the ride in the amusement park.

Plans are now under way for a family dinner at the Fall Creek Parkway YWCA on Sunday, Oct. 25, at which time club members and their families will tour the new building.

The group has already made a contribution to the "Y" building fund.

Miss Dora Oma Powell has returned from New York City where he was the house guest of Miss Lucille Armistead.

Start Day Right—With a Good Breakfast

Every known study has proved that people, from the small child to the adult worker, who tuck away a good meal before starting the day, get more done. It's been said millions of times that there are 8 to 10 hours between the last meal of the day and breakfast.

The first meal must provide the fuel to start the day right.

Nutritious, well balanced lunches are most important for school children, but what about the hastily eaten breakfast that so often passes as the first meal of the day?

Now that the fall season is with us and things have gotten back into a more regular pattern, why not sit down and take stock of the breakfasts you have been serving your family?

Plan some new menus for a change, ones that contain a different eating experience for the whole family, not just the kids.

Too often the sweet rolls, waffles or pancakes, eggs and bacon breakfasts are relegated to Saturday or Sunday mornings when mother has more time.

You can prepare a good breakfast in just a few minutes if you do a little planning and make use of the convenient foods of today.

Such things as canned, frozen or fresh citrus juice; ready to eat cereals; sausage or ham bought pre-cooked; cheese or cold sliced meats to be served as alternates with eggs; instant hot beverages and partially baked hot breads or canned over-ready biscuits.

With a little more time to spend, prepared mixes for muffins, biscuits, cornbread and pancakes or waffle; add variety.

Try this for a starter—make it into the hang of getting on a schedule, but make each minute count and use your ingenuity to create something different.

Orange, tomato, pineapple or grapefruit juice, scrambled eggs, ham slices, orange marmalade, corn muffins and milk or coffee.

ORANGE MARMALADE CORN MUFFINS

4 teaspoons baking powder

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Sift together dry ingredients. Add egg, milk and shortening. Beat with rotary beater until smooth, about one minute. Do not overbeat. Spoon batter into greased muffin cups, filling each about 2/3 full. Place teaspoon of marmalade in center of each muffin. Bake 20 to 25 minutes.

Is there a waffle iron in the house? Use it to give new look to French toast.

 Responding to the proclamation of "Senior Citizens Health Care Week," Sept. 20-26, by Governor
Harold V. Handley, Blue Cross
Executive Director Guy W. Spitts announced a broad, new, non-can-cellable Blue Cross-Blue Shield program of hospital, surgical and in-hospital medical protection, directed primarily to the elderly and the self-employed, that will be offered during a special state-wide enrollment campaign Sept. 19-30.
During this time individuals, regardless of age or physical condition, may enroll in Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

 This specially designed program will pay the greatest possible portion of hospital services up to $5,000 per year for each member and dependent, according to the terms of the certificate.

 Blue Shield coverage includes in-hospital medical services in addition to the standard surgical and anesthesia schedule.

 Membership fees for this special coverage will be $7.00 a month for an individual and $12.40 a month for a family membership, and may be paid monthly if desired.

 Mr. Spitts, in announcing this program stated, "The problem of hospital and medical coverage of the aged is a community responsibility and Blue Cross-Blue Shield are assuming their share of this obligation."

CHURCH EVENTS
... of the City

By WILLA THOMAS

 Winter will arrive soon in many countries and thousands of people without clothes to wear. We are constantly reminded of the urgent need for clothing and food for these unfortunate refugees.

 Now, we can do something to help supply this need.
All Church Federations have been asked to conduct clothing drives during the fall of 1959.
There who wish to contribute to this worthy cause should take their clothing to the Mission building, 222 S. Downey.

 Those who bring clothing are also asked to bring 8 1/2 cents per pound to cover the handling and shipping cost.

 This is an important project for youth and adult groups. All clothing should be cleaned. Start now collecting clothing.

 After Sunday school at our church, First Baptist, I attended the 11 a.m. worship service at Eastern Star Baptist to urge the members there to share in the Billy Graham crusade which begins Oct. 6 at the Fairgrounds Coliseum. I was moved by the very fine message given by Rev. P. C.
Owens.

I SHOULD LIKE TO URG
all Christian workers and leaders to follow these steps for individual participation:

1. Pray daily for one to 10 persons you know who have spiritual need.
2. Cultivate their friendship.
3. Bring them to the service.
4. Encourage them to decide for Christ.
5. Follow them up until they are linked with the church, and in turn become growing, witnessing Christians.

 Mrs. Beulah Bridges, president of the Eastern Star Baptist Church, gave a very fine report
Sunday on the National Baptist Convention which met in Kansas City.

 Last week more than 50 new ministers were welcomed to the city with a banquet given in their honor by the Church Federation.
The dinner meeting was held at the Central YMCA.

 Last Sunday was men's day at the Garfield Baptist Church. A former pastor of the church, Elde
F. F. Young, was guest speaker at the 3 p.m. service.

MRS. BETTY MATTHEWS, surintendent of Stewart Chap-CME Church, has announced that next Sunday will be "Sunda School Attendance Rally Day starting at 9:30 a.m.

 Roses will be awarded to th teacher with the largest attendance.

A reception followed the panel dicussion for all high school and college students.

 The Young Adult Fellowship of the Church Federation had a larg attendance at their meeting in Saturday at the Southside YMCA.
John Martin presided at th meeting and Miss Maxine Blanton Greater St. John Baptist Churc led the "get-acquainted" perio
The closing worship was by Mi
Barbara Lennure, also of St. Joh
Baptist. Miss Catherine Carter staff advisor for the group.

 The Youth Council of the Churc
Federation will have their annu-
"Fall Round-Up" Sunday at 12:4 at Camp Belzer. All delegat from the various churches are invited to attend and bring their lunches.

 Miss April Lawson, Secon
Christian Church, is the new secretary of the group. Miss Ann Runyon is president; Phil Rode-baugh, vice-president.

AN INSURANCE CLINIC will be held Sept. 29 from 12 to 6 at the Church Federation office.
Qualified experts will discuss insurance needs of the churches and what constitutes complete and adequate coverage.

 Ministers and laymen wishing to attend the clinic should make reservations at the church federation office. There will be much to learn and I think every church should send representatives.

 September 27 to Oct. 4 is National Christian Education Week.
I hope that a great many of you will observe the week of education.

$175,000 Chapel

 SAN FRANCISCO (ANP) — The Women's convention, auxiliary to the National Baptist Convention, was informed at its recent meeting that the $175,000 chapel now under construction on the campus of its trade and professional school in Washington, D. C., will be dedicated debt-free within the month.

 More than 100 women volunteered to contribute $25 each for the purchase of one memorial chair for the worship auditorium. The chapel promises to be one of the most beautiful, modern, comfortable and worshipful little chapels on any college campus anywhere.

 Each of the velvet upholstered chairs will bear a gold plate inscribed with the name of the person in whose honor it was donated.

 It was just a few years ago that the Baptist women, through their president, Miss Nannie H. Burroughs, built and dedicated debt-free a $200,000 dormitory on the Washington campus of the National

Bishop Gomez, AME Notables At 77th Chicago AME Confab

CHICAGO (ANP)—The 77th annual session of the Chicago AME church ended a six-day session last week at Copple Memorial AME Church. Hosts were Bishop Joseph Gomez, presiding prelate, and Rev. S. S. Morris Jr. of Copple Church.

Bishop Gomez was elected and consecrated one of the bishops of the denomination at the Kansas City conference in 1948 and for several months served in the 13th District before being assigned to the Fourth District.

Numbered among his achievements is the tremendous expansion and development of Paul Quinn College during his supervision.

During last week's meeting, ministers and laymen unanimously requested that the General Conference of 1960 return Bishop and Mrs. Gomez to the Fourth District for another four years.

THE ONLY JARRING NOTE heard during the meetings was voiced when some members of Bethel AME Church asked for the removal of their pastor, Rev. J. Anthony Portlock.

Bishop Gomez said he planned to take no part in the controversy. Rev. Morris, a candidate for the bishopric during the forthcoming general congress in Los Angeles next year, was congratulated upon his achievements while serving at Copple.

Under his administration, the church purchased a parsonage for $25,750; bought $5,000 worth of office machinery; installed an outside bulletin board and put a new roof on the church; paid off the balance of $4,700 on new pews and chairs; completely overhauled the organ, and raised a total of $165,732.00.

In addition, 263 persons have joined the church and 177 were baptized.

On the closing day of the session, Rev. Morris headed a police-escorted motorcade to DuSable high school, where the final meeting was held.

Notable speakers present included Drs. George A. Singleton, J. D. Cos on and Russell S. Brown, Bishop D. H. Sims, Revs. Robert Thomas, Hazelia Savage, G. McGee, C. R. Waters and Maurice Higginbotham, and Sen. Marshall Korschak.

Choirs and ministers from all Chicago AME churches participated in the closing service procession.

Truman Gibson

proposed Joe Louis-Billy Conn Army benefit fight. The bout never came off because the late Promoter Mike Jacobs demanded control of tickets in the first 20 rows.

After the war Louis sought Gibson's help with his tangled finances, including back income taxes. Gibson suggested the formation of Joe Louis Enterprises, Inc., which distributed the two Louis-Joe Walcott fight films.

Then Gibson and the late Harry Mendel, a press agent, approached multi-millionaire Jim Norris with the idea of a fight promotional business that would include Louis. This was the birth of the International Boxing Club, with Norris as president and Gibson secretary. Louis later, on retirement, got a $20,000-a-year job as member of the staff.

IN LOUIS the IBC had the biggest prize in boxing, the heavyweight championship, and soon the club had "moved the capital of boxing from New York to Chicago."

In the next decade the IBC's success was all too great, however, and the government brought action against it as a monopoly. Last year came two climatic developments.

First Norris, said to be in failing health, withdrew as president and Gibson took his place. At last a Negro had reached the money and prestige pinnacle of the fight game — though some said Norris was still calling the shots from the wings.

Then the Justice Department won its suit, and the IBC was compelled to disband. Subsequently, National Boxing Enterprises was formed with Gibson at its head.

Haskins Hatcher

Funeral services for Haskins A. Hatcher, 23, 4610 W. 127th, were held Sunday in the Friends Meeting House, 55 S. Ritter. Hatcher was believed killed last Friday when he tried to board a moving Monon Railroad freight train at Bloomington.

Hatcher was the son of Harold O. Hatcher, director of the Association for Merit Employment Inc., a United Fund Agency, and Josephine Hatcher, a teacher at School 82.

Born in New York City, Hatcher came to Indianapolis in 1940 and was graduated with honors at Howe high school. A licensed music teacher, he was a graduate of Earlham College and had been newly enrolled as a graduate student at

Do Women Possess Secret Strength?

NEW YORK (ANP)—In the next 15 years there will be 40 percent more women than men in the United States — and the gap broadens every year.

The reason? Women are outliving men to such an extent that scientists suggest that the young girl who wants to avoid widowhood should look for a husband six years younger than herself, says an article in the new issue of Good Housekeeping magazine.

Why are women outliving men? This question raised in the feature has long been keeping scientists busy finding the answers.

In most professional circles there is a growing belief that women actually DO have a special secret weapon to protect them against physical and emotional wear and tear. The American woman, it is revealed, resists every major disease more successfully than her male counterpart. She stands up better to the face of emotional stress and she is more apt to pull through a serious illness.

Is the female just enjoying the good breaks, or is there really a "secret strength"? And if there is, queries the Good Housekeeping feature, "Can we bottle it and give it to the men, too?"

THE GREATEST CLUE to this mystery may lie in the very essence of femininity for, scientists now feel that Estrogen, the female's natural hormone protector against solid fat in the blood. This would account for the rise in coronaries in men — but not in women.

According to one source quoted in the feature, "If we could isolate the feminizing effects of Estrogen, men could get it and live longer. And if we could separate whatever it is in the hormone that keeps women from getting bald," we might even save men's hair!

So scientists will continue to probe women's deep secret, and man someday will reap the benefits. Until the final answer is determined, one doctor quoted in the article seems to have the most eloquent explanation. "Women may live longer," he suggests, "simply because they are the bearers of life. If I were God, or nature, I would arrange it so."

the new $1 million-plus building. Also pictured are Joseph Downey, master of ceremonies for the pledge presentation; M/Sgt. Thomas Johnson, a club member, and Rev. Andrew Brown, pastor of St. John Baptist Church, which also has made a "Y" pledge. (Recorder photo by Jim Burres)

Map Plans for Intermediate NAACP Group

A group of young adults met Sunday afternoon to lay ground-work plans for an intermediate NAACP Council.

Miss Carole Stevenson was named chairman of the group to be known either as a college chapter or a young adult chapter.

The proposed group would bridge the gap between the Youth Council and the adult branch.

Hostess for the meeting at 2441 Pierson was Miss Laura Mays. She has invited all interested persons between 18 and 24 to attend the second meeting Sunday at 5:30 at the home of Miss Sarah Senour, 2205 Eastern.

Also attending Sunday's meeting were the Misses Leonetta Dunson, Phyllis Glover, Betty Jean Courtney, Nozella V. Harris, Sandra A. Shelby, Dennis W. Harris, Brenda Moore, Jacqueline Robinson and Dana Jones and Messrs. John G. Jordan, Cecil Motley and Bill Raspberry.

Mrs. Corran Hawkins spent last week in Chicago as guest of friends.

Mrs. Georgia Mae Stokely and children of Painesville, Ohio, have come to live with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Ware, 947 S. Illinois.

Rev. Marsh on Better Schools Slate As Board Battle Gives Voters Choice

Indianapolis voters Nov. 3 will have a chance to choose among at least two slates of School Board candidates — and to cast their ballots for a Negro candidate — according to an air-clearing ruling last week by the Marion County Election Board.

Acting in the spirit of Hoosier democracy, the Republican-controlled board ruled the slate filed by the Committee for Better Schools should be placed on the ballot.

This slate includes the only Negro in the running — Rev. Clinton M. Marsh, pastor of Witherspoon United Presbyterian Church and widely-known civic leader. Many voters of all groups feel it is vital that a well-qualified Negro like Rev. Marsh be on the School Board during this trying period of integration.

AS A RESULT of the election board's action — unless it be upset by last-minute maneuvering the Citizens School Committee will have full-fledged opposition for the first time in 30 years.

Earlier, the Better Schools group's ballot right had been clouded by an opinion of two members of the State Election Board that the slate should have been filed by Sept. 1.

IN ORDER to cut through this dilemma the Better Schools committee got busy and secured 2,979 signatures for its 7 candidates — well over the number required and more than the Citizens committee had filed — over the Labor Day weekend.

City Controller Albert H. Losche, a Democrat, expedited matters by forwarding the petitions immediately to the County Election Board instead of holding them for five days' advertising as he was entitled to.

The county board then accepted them. Member Robert S. Smith explaining:

"A good faith effort was made by the Better Schools group to comply. There is a direct conflict between the two laws and a substantial number of voters had signed the Better Schools petitions.

REV. CLINTON M. MARSH

We feel they should be given their day in the voting booth."

IN ADDITION to Rev. Marsh candidates of the Better Schools committee are Sigmund J. Beck, 4325 N. Illinois; Mrs. Elizabeth Noland Jackson, 4838 Young; Dr. William P. Kuter, 5325 N. Delaware; Dr. Carl A. Kuethe, 5014 Central; Bruce H. Richards, 1089 Wendemere; and Dr. Rudolph R. Schreiber, 3747 N. Linwood.

Candidates of the Citizens School Committee are Mrs. John Burkhardt, 7031 Washington Boulevard; Mrs. Ralph B. Coble, 6180 N. Meridian, West Drive; Elbert R. Gilliom, 6969 Warwick Road; Edward B. Raub Jr., 5361 Washington Boulevard; Henry F. Schriker, Jr., 444 W. 44th; Wallace S. Sims, 731 Terrace ave.; and Fred H. Surface, 931 N. Bradley.

Attempting to give the voters still a further choice was an independent candidate, Mrs. Nell Merwick Thomas, 3045 N. Pennsylvania.

100 Churches Start Work For Billy Graham Crusade

Cord I Social Club Lists Activities

Members of the Cord I club entertained their husbands with a Labor Day barbecue on the lawn of Mrs. Juanita Moss, club secretary, 2177 Dexter.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Caldwell, Mrs. Eva Smith of the Angels club and Mrs. Harold Bigbee.

Mrs. Essie Rake, club critic, was Mrs. Smith's guest in Cincinnati last week.

Mrs. Moss had as recent house guest Pvt. James Moss, stationed at Fort Campbell, Ky.

The club met last with the treasurer, Mrs. Florence Pierson. After business, the group enjoyed cocktails and hors-d'oeuvres. The hostess later took the club members to Hong Lee's for dinner.

Fall Creek YMCA Sets Variety Show

The Fall Creek Parkway YMCA will present the first of the annual "Y" pageants Sunday, Oct. 4.

The pageant, a gala variety show, will proceed to supplement the greatly increased membership budget, will headline such stars and attractions as the Three Souls, national recording artists; Dave Baker and Larry Liggett's orchestra; King & Mary, novelty song-and-dance duo, currently appearing at La Rue's Supper Club; Delores Seath, classical pianist, and many others.

The show is also co-ordinated to be equally inviting to the younger set by presenting the children's accordion choir from the Indianapolis Conservatory of Music, a group from Ann's Dance Studio featuring pupils ranging in age from 3 to 8, and also Carol Henzie, state baton twirling champion.

Climaxing the show will be the Miss Sepia Contest finals.

Tickets are now on sale at $1.50, $2.50 and $3.75 and may be purchased at the lobby of the Fall Creek YMCA or from any member of the membership committee or by calling ME 4-2478.

Barnes Women Fete President With Tea

Members of the Ladies' chorus of Barnes Methodist believe in presenting their bouquets to the living.

The group recently feted Mrs. Norene Harrison, president, at a tea and program at her home.

"I was so overcome I couldn't help crying," Mrs. Harrison admitted after the affair.

ISAIAH PETTY LEAVES FOR OAKLAND COLLEGE

Isaiah Petty, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Petty, 2723 Guilford, left recently for Oakland, Calif., where he will attend Oakland Junior College.

An education major, he was a member of Seventeenth Street Memorial Baptist Church and active with its Christian Welcome Committee for Foreign Students.

Friends may write him at 839 14th street, Oakland 7.

Members of 100 churches in and near Indianapolis this week launched a two week pre-crusade visitation program, according to Willis G. Haymaker, director of the forthcoming Billy Graham Crusade.

The program will continue until Oct. 3, three days prior to the start of the series of Graham meetings.

This marked the first time in America a visitation program has been conducted prior to a Graham crusade, although visitations were carried out in Sydney, Australia, last winter with marked success.

PURPOSE OF THE VISITATION is two-fold: to extend an invitation to every resident of the Greater Indianapolis area and nearby cities to attend the crusade, and to locate people not affiliated with a church in order that they may be urged to attend the crusade.

Results of the visitation also will be used in making up prospect lists for the visitation evangelism week immediately following the crusade and for a continuing visitation evangelism program.

Dr. James Armstrong, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church, is chairman of the visitation evangelism committee.

Church members who are to participate in the census visitation have been attending counselor training programs in recent weeks in preparation for their mission.

Mr. Haymaker said this is not merely a census of religious affiliation but an opportunity to extend an invitation to persons visited to attend the crusade meetings.

A pamphlet containing a message by Dr. Graham and an invitation to attend will be handed to each family.

THE VISITOR will seek to find out the church usually attended by the family, the names and ages of children, and name of the person answering the door.

This information will be processed and the census forms given to the appropriate co-operating churches.

The local church then will use these forms in promoting crusade attendance and in making up its prospect list for visitation evangelism week.

The crusade is scheduled Oct. 6 through Nov. 1 at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Flora M. Silver

Mrs. Flora M. Silver, 79, mother of Irving E. Silver, general manager of Schiff's Shoe Company, died last week in Methodist Hospital.

Mrs. Silver was born in New York City and has lived here 28 years. She was a member of White Cross Guild, Hadassah Council of Jewish Women, Hebrew Sisterhood, and Indianapolis Hebrew Temple.

Services were held Sept. 21 in the Indianapolis Hebrew Temple with burial in Indianapolis Hebrew cemetery.

PTA Rallies Neighbors in Fight for Traffic Light

The intersection has been described by the police department traffic experts as "the worst intersection in a residential area in the entire city."

There were 25 accidents recorded there in 1958 and during the first six months of 1959 12 accidents were recorded.

Mayor Charles Rossow promised civic leaders a month ago that he would have the automatic signal installed there in two weeks.

An automatic signal would halt traffic on both streets with red, amber and green lights. The flasher, however, stops traffic only on Boulevard and warns the drivers on 29th to proceed with caution.

Informed last week of the change of plans the School 36 PTA went into action. Mrs. Helyne James, president of the group, and Mrs. James C. Cummings Jr., chairman of the program committee, organized a phone campaign which had residents of the area calling the mayor's office around the clock each day, lodging their protests.

THE PTA CONTENDS that the automatic signal is needed more now than it was a year ago when the residents filed a petition of nearly 1,000 names with the city administration, then headed by Phil Bayt. The petition was disregarded.

With the addition on school 36, the enrollment this semester almost tripled as pupils were transferred from schools 60, 87 and 41. With attendance at 283 last June, the school now accommodates 757 pupils. Over half the pupils have to cross 29th street, either at Capitol or at Boulevard to get to school.

The city has contended that the budget would not permit the installation of an automatic signal at the location, claiming the cost would be about $3,000. Also, City Traffic Engineer Ted Siegel claims the traffic count at the intersection is too low to warrant the desired installation.

Mrs. James and her group say they will not accept this as a basis of denial because of the installation of an automatic traffic signal at Kessler Boulevard and Norwalk street for the benefit of pupils of Christ The King Catholic School.

THE KESSLER-NORWALK intersection is not nearly as dangerous as the 29th and Boulevard crossing, the PTA contends.

In five years only three accidents have been recorded there with no injuries reported. In 13 months 37 accidents have been recorded at 29th and Boulevard with nine injuries reported.

In addition, the PTA claims, Christ The King has an enrollment of 806, many of whom are transported to and from the school in buses, while 36 has 757 pupils, almost all of whom walk to and from school.

Mrs. James and Mrs. Cummings feel that Mayor Rossow and Mr. Siegel have exhibited no interest in the welfare and safety of the Negro children of the area.

"He simply slaps us in the face with a $200 flasher and tells our children to fend for themselves in the killer traffic at 29th and Boulevard," Mrs. Cummings told the Recorder.

"Well, it might end up that way, but we're not going to give up the fight for full protection for our children."

The PTA has asked all the residents of the area to call the mayor's office and raise their voices in protest. Meanwhile, the group

Western Electric Plant Staff Plans Week-Long Open House

An estimated 35,000 visitors are expected to attend Western Electric's Open House at its Shadeland Works during the week of Sept. 23—Oct. 2.

"Our open house commemorates the production of the 45,000,000th telephone Western Electric has manufactured in Indianapolis since it moved its telephone-making facilities here," said Works Manager Hardy G. Ross in discussing plans for the occasion.

"From 6:30 till 9 each evening, our guests will have a chance to see how their Bell System telephones are made. We've also arranged some exhibits to be placed along the tour route, among them an interesting display of 'Telephones of Tomorrow.'"

Guests will include H. I. Romney, Western Electric's president; members of his staff, employees, V.T. & T. Share Owners, governmental officials, representatives of the press, radio, and television and civic, religious, and industrial leaders. The families and friends of all of these groups also invited.

All the telephones for the Bell System are manufactured at Western Electric's Shadeland Works, located on a 132-acre tract at 2525 Shadeland.

Manufacturing facilities include more than four miles of overhead conveyors and the world's largest plastic-molding plant. A unique feature of the works is a model shop where experimental telephones are hand-made for A.T. & T. customer-reaction testing. There are 7,000 employees at the Shadeland Works with an annual payroll of approximately $40,000,000. The current manufacturing program, the highest in Western Electric history, is over 7,000,000 sets this year (30,000 a day).

The Western Electric Company is the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System. It has approximately 124,000 employees throughout the United States. The twelve principal manufacturing plants, and distributing houses in 32 cities. The Indianapolis Distributing House is located at 1233 W. 18.

The firm also has extensive military commitments.

Current major defense projects include the Nike Hercules missile, the Nike Zeus anti-missile system, the SAGE system of continental air defense, an extension of the DEW (Distant Early Warning) line originally built by Western Electric, the BMEWS (Ballistic Missile Early Warning System), the Titan Intercontinental ballistic missile, and Project Mercury, a network of instrumentation stations to track, safeguard, and recover the first U.S. astronaut.

College Education Is a Right, Not a Privilege, Says Singer

Children of the Negro race go through school without grasping any reason why they should study, because they can see few career opportunities open to them, says Marian Anderson, concert contralto and UN representative in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Miss Anderson is one of eight prominent laymen and leading educators who debate the question, "Is College Education a Right or Privilege?" The panelists are concerned with whether education beyond high school should be made available to all young people — through wholly tax-supported schools — or should it be a privilege to be earned by ability.

On this subject Miss Anderson says, "Many young people who cannot meet the admission requirements of first-rate colleges definitely have something to offer a community, and need more than the high school to find their footing. A sort of proving ground."

She raises objections to the present philosophies governing high school programs which make it necessary for all students to take such subjects as mathematics, language, literature.

"Many people have talent of one kind or another. If this talent is not for the traditional academic subjects, very often they are lost in school. If a person wants to be a cartoonist, or wants to sing, or to engage in some other specialized pursuit, he has to follow the regular school pattern almost to adulthood before he can do much about it," she contends.

Among the other panelists participating in the Journal's third forum on education are Cartoonist Al Capp; Alfred M. Gruenther, American National Red Cross president; Victor G. Reuther of United Auto Workers; a college president and a college dean of admissions.

Hawaiian Senator Trying Too Hard?

Public opinion in Hawaii is that Hiram L. Fong, Congress's newest senator, is trying too hard to win friends and influence people.

The editorial blast which the Cleveland Call-Post gave the senator recently made headlines in the Honolulu Star Bulletin. It was entitled "Senator Fong Wears Unbecoming Hat," and aligned the congressman with Faubus.

Nevertheless, it is believed throughout Hawaii that when the time comes to stand up and be counted, Sen. Fong will be on the side of strong civil rights legislation. He is not unfamiliar with racism.

Hawaii's known reputation for free and genial race mingling is not without its problems.

Negroes' Initiative Is Desegregation Key

NEW YORK, N. Y. (ANP) —

"The bed-rock of improvement in Southern race relations is the Negro's persistent peaceful demands for his rights." This was the principal point of the talk delivered here recently to the Catholic Interracial Forum by William Peters, author of The Southern Temper.

Peters, who has traveled extensively in the South and who has written comprehensively on race relations, explained that where desegregation was left up to the whites of the community there was little done. In almost every case, he said, a lawsuit had first to be initiated by Negroes.

Once the issue was settled by the courts, it was no longer the simple one of segregation versus desegregation. The white liberals could then make their influence felt in taking a strong stand for keeping the schools open and maintaining the American public school system.

Nevertheless, the author explained, even the most diehard segregationist will admit segregation is a "lost cause." In this regard Mr. Peters cited many instances where courage and common sense are breaking down the artificial barriers of racial segregation in the South. An outstanding example of this is the integrated Veterans Administration Hospital in Jackson, Mississippi, which put Negro and white patients in alternate beds without incident or opposition.

Not that whites can help solve this national problem, Peters con-

600,000-YEAR-OLD SKULL FOUND IN EAST AFRICA

NAIROBI, Kenya (ANP) — An

African skull believed to be more than 600,000 years old has been described as that of the "oldest well-established stone toolmaker ever found anywhere."

The announcement was made by Dr. L. B. S. Leakey, noted anthropologist and curator, whose wife made the rare find.

Dr. Leakey, who returned to the States with the skull carefully crated and heavily insured, said fragments of the skull, believed to be that of a young man who died between the ages of 16 and 18, have been sent to California for a potassium argon test to determine the accuracy of his estimate of the skull's age.

Dr. Leakey has advanced the theory that the youth had lived mainly on vegetables and nuts, competing with contemporary "giant bison and giant pigs" as big as rhinoceroses for food.

Dr. Leakey's views received the support of leading anthropologists, paleontologists, and geologists during a recent meeting of the Pan-African Congress of Pre-History.

The noted anthropologist has named the species "Zinjanthropus Boisei." The prefix Zinj is the ancient name for East Africa.

Chides Congress for Failure With Juvenile Delinquency

WASHINGTON (ANP) — The "coddling" or "spoiling" of children rather than disciplining them has contributed as much to juvenile delinquency as abusing and neglecting children, said Secretary Arthur S. Flemming of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

At his press conference last Tuesday, Secretary Flemming chided Congress for its failure to pass any legislation dealing with this serious problem of juvenile delinquency.

The President has been calling for action on this problem since 1955, said Flemming. And the Department of HEW submitted legislative proposals both in 1955 and 1957 which could have represented a start toward the solution, but none of the proposals was enacted.

During the session of Congress just closed there were bills introduced which had to do with various aspects of juvenile delinquency but none passed.

In requesting a study by HEW, the Senate Appropriations Committee commented:

"JUVENILE DELINQUENCY is a complex problem which involves not only disciplines that contribute directly to mental health but also those related to religion, social work, law, education, recreation and others. The Committee believes that the mental health aspect, while important in many instances, represents only one facet of the problem. The majority of the many thousands of children brought to the attention of police and the courts live under very adverse economic and social conditions and often lack proper spiritual and parental guidance."

It is within this broad framework, said Flemming that the Department is trying to approach delinquency but there is no single or simple cause for the problem just as there is no single or simple solution.

Data collected by the Children's Bureau and the Federal Bureau of Investigation give some indication of the magnitude and probable future growth of the problem of juvenile delinquency.

IN THE DECADE from 1948 to 1957 delinquency cases handled by juvenile courts increased 137 percent, according to Secretary Flemming, while the population between the ages of 10 and 17 increased by only 28 percent. About 520,000 children were referred to juvenile courts for delinquency in 1957, which constituted about 2.3 percent of all children in the age group 10 through 17.

The FBI reports that the arrested persons under 18 increased last year by 8 percent over 1957.

It is estimated that there will be 30 million children in the United States by 1965, and if juvenile delinquency continues to increase at the same rate as it has since 1943, the juvenile courts within the next six years will be handling an annual rate of about a million delinquent cases.

Franklin Couple Joined In Impressive Church Ritual

By BILLY BOUIER
FRANKLIN—Mrs. Harold Perry was Miss Betty L. Thornton before her marriage Saturday evening in Second Baptist Church. The bride was lovely in an ice-blue street-length dress and half-hat.

Miss Birdie Perry, sister of the groom, was her only attendant. She wore a pink faille dress and hat.

James Cosby, Madison, was best man.

After the ceremony, a wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Thornton, after which the couple left for their newly decorated home in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thornton are parents of the bride, and Mrs. Mary Perry is the bridegroom's mother.

Many out-of-town relatives and friends, including several from Anderson and Madison, attended the wedding rites. Rev. Lee Squires officiated.

Earlier, the bride had been feted at a shower at the Palmer building given by Mesdames Ernest Broadbuss and James H. Lewis, her aunts. Some 25 guests enjoyed an evening of games and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. LARRY MCGILL and family, El Centro, Calif., arrived here Saturday for a visit with relatives and friends. Mr. McGill is on leave from the Navy, having recently re-enlisted for six years.

The McGills will visit in and around Franklin before returning to El Centro, where he is to be stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb's Montgomery and Mrs. Clarence Wales attended the Wednesday evening session of the Indiana AME Conference which closed Sunday in Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ewing, Indianapolis, were dinner guests on Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Corly Hunter.

Spending last Saturday in Indianapolis were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wales and Mrs. Edna McGill.

CLIFFORD HORDE of Indianapolis spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Greene and family.

Mr. and Mrs. David Winburn III and daughter, Leslie, of Richmond spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Perkins and family.

Messrs. Robert Tucker, Webster Montgomery and Jesse Perkins, Miss Sylvesta Crowe and Mesdames John Hunt and Seymour Bursie attended Sunday's closing session of the Indiana AME Conference at the Murat theater in Indianapolis.

Rev. J. J. Hardy was returned here for his second year.

Mrs. Lee Squires, who recently underwent surgery at St. Vincent's Hospital, Indianapolis, is reported slowly improving. She is in Room 205.

Special Judge Julius Sachs in Lake Circuit Court.

Judge Sachs appointed a recount commission in July, and they said Wesson actually received 1,721 votes in the election to Wilson's 1,593, a difference of 128 votes.

County Clerk Francis T. Grandys, election board secretary, said that Wesson is the official candidate. He added that there will still be a court hearing, but now Wilson will be the challenger who must seek to upset the recount.

The errors which threw the election to Wilson were made in four of the district's 16 precincts, according to the recount commission.

The commission found that all errors made were at Wesson's expense—either by virtue of his actual total being trimmed or Wilson's tally being increased over the actual votes received.

Wilson hired Atty. Henry Walker of 1,712 votes and Wesson with 1,638. Wesson challenged the first returns with a petition in Circuit Court in May.

Wilson filed several motions aimed at preventing the recount. All these were overruled by gration.

There are very few in the county today who feel the men he had the plan won't make it stick—at least for the coming year.

The eight private schools opened in churches and private buildings for the back-to-school preliminaries and formalities.

Some of the classrooms were crowded. There were no facilities for physical education—no place for the pupils to have lunch.

The shops and the science laboratories were not quite ready.

"This is just a shakedown cruise," said J. B. Wall, publisher of the Farmville Herald and an official of the Prince Edward School Foundation.

"We'll get these things worked out. Our big job right now is to start getting these children educated."

"We're in this thing to make it work," said B. Blanton Hanbury, foundation president.

"WE'RE NOT FOOLING." Meanwhile, Negro leaders are trying to raise money so they can send the Negro children, particularly the high school seniors, to other areas for an education.

They have not had much luck so far. They have collected $300 locally and have pledges, but no money yet from out-of-county sources.

Sixteen have been sent on scholarships to Kittrell College, a Negro junior college in Kittrell, N. C., with a high school branch.

Rev. L. Francis Griffin, pastor of Farmville's First Baptist Church, said about $10,000 is needed to care for the remaining 35 seniors now out of school.

AFL-CIO Publishes Labor Debate Kit For High Schoolers

"Resolved: That the Federal Government should substantially increase its regulation of labor unions."

This is one of three labor-management issues to be debated during the present school year by high school students throughout America.

To help student debaters, the AFL-CIO Education department has prepared and distributed a debating kit through the national high school debate organization. It also is available on request.

The general theme asks what labor-management policies will best serve the American people.

Three sub-questions deal with ending "right-to-work" laws, Federal regulation of trade unions and compulsory vs. voluntary arbitration of labor disputes. The kits contain pamphlets and statements by religious leaders, government officials and union leaders.

Many More Could Get War Orphan Benefits

One-third of the eligible young people are failing to take advantage of the War Orphans Education Act due to a misunderstanding of the law, the Veterans Administration estimated last week.

The VA says there are three major misconceptions.

Many of the eligible young people fail to think of themselves as orphans while one parent is still living. But the law regards the children of a parent who died from a wartime service connected injury or illness as orphans even with the other parent alive.

Eligible children who have married often consider themselves no longer eligible for the educational privileges. Yet marriage has no bearing upon eligibility under the War Orphans Education Act.

Some eligible children believe that they may pursue training only at the college level under the law. VA pointed out that institutional training may be pursued for various occupations in the vocational and technical field.

Special Judge Julius Sachs in Lake Circuit Court.

Judge Sachs appointed a recount commission in July, and they said Wesson actually received 1,721 votes in the election to Wilson's 1,593, a difference of 128 votes.

County Clerk Francis T. Grandys, election board secretary, said that Wesson is the official candidate. He added that there will still be a court hearing, but now Wilson will be the challenger who must seek to upset the recount.

The errors which threw the election to Wilson were made in four of the district's 16 precincts, according to the recount commission.

The commission found that all errors made were at Wesson's expense—either by virtue of his actual total being trimmed or Wilson's tally being increased over the actual votes received.

Wilson hired Atty. Henry Walker of 1,712 votes and Wesson with 1,638. Wesson challenged the first returns with a petition in Circuit Court in May.

Wilson filed several motions aimed at preventing the recount. All these were overruled by gration.

There are very few in the county today who feel the men he had the plan won't make it stick—at least for the coming year.

The eight private schools opened in churches and private buildings for the back-to-school preliminaries and formalities.

Registration Campaign Gets Into Full Swing

The non-partisan Citizens Committee for Registration and Voting has launched an all-out registration campaign which should, if supported by Negroes in general, have far-reaching political effect and eventually make itself felt in the economic life of every Negro family in Indianapolis.

Leaders of the committee, which has dedicated itself to seeing to it that every eligible Negro in the community is registered in time to vote in the fall elections, have done and are doing a really fine job in rallying the support and active participation of hundreds of interested persons. But hundreds more volunteer workers are needed.

We are aware that no amount of preaching and editorializing can accomplish what these tireless workers are doing with their house-to-house campaign. The committee is accepting no excuse for any eligible Negro's failure to register, even going so far as to offer help with transportation and baby-sitting problems. While this unstinted enthusiasm is commendable, it is all but inevitable for anyone who can see the tremendous possibilities of an all-out register-vote campaign on the part of Indianapolis Negroes.

Politicians, being practical souls, cannot be blamed for ignoring the nation's biggest minority when that minority is willing to sit placidly by and be ignored. But, being practical, no public servant is willing to risk his political future by short-changing any group which will speak in the language he understands best — registering and voting.

Political leaders in Memphis are most keenly aware of the Negro's political potential. And why? Because the city's Negroes turned out in unprecedented numbers to register and vote in the last city election, very nearly succeeding in electing one of more of their number to important political posts.

Is anyone so unthinking as to suppose Memphis' politicians will ignore the wishes of Negro citizens in the future? And is there any reason whatever why Negroes in the "backward" South should have more concern for their own welfare than their Indianapolis brothers?

The Citizens Committee, led by Miles H. Loyd, Starling W. James, Mrs. Henri Gibson, Rev. Ford Gibson, D. W. D. Hector, Robert Williams, Mrs. Virgia Davis and her "Petticoat Brigade" and members of several clubs and organizations, have seen the light. And with the help of more interested citizens — businessmen, housewives, students, laborers and anyone else with a little bit of time on his hands — they can and will knock on enough doors, and knock loudly enough, to awaken the "Sleeping Giant" which is the Negro community.

No Mississippi Streets for Us!

A curious — but maybe not insignificant — sign of the times is the proposal to change the name of Senate Avenue and its extension, Boulevard Place, to Mississippi Street.

Believe it or not, a campaign toward that goal is being carried on by a local columnist. At the same time, Capitol Avenue would be changed to Tennessee Street.

Both of these thoroughfares run through our part of town. An informal poll reveals that residents would be startled, to say the least, if they woke up one morning and found themselves "still in Mississippi." (There's too much Mississippi here already for some of us.)

History indeed tells us that these avenues bore the names of the respective Dixie states until the City Council changed them by ordinances in 1894 and 1895. Leading the fight for the changes was John Puryear, Negro Councilman from the 4th Ward. (Yes, Virginia, Indianapolis had Negro Councilmen then.)

Councilman Puryear, according to an old-timer, "didn't want the names of Mississippi and Tennessee being run past Indiana's Capitol." He is quoted as saying he "hated the name of Mississippi."

And well he might! While the syllables themselves form a beautiful-sounding word — the Indian name for the "Father of Waters" — the word itself as applied to a state stands for all that is most evil in American life. It brings to mind segregation, exploitation, race hatred, lynching — 14-year-old Emmett Till's body in the Tallahatchie River and Mack Charles Parker's head bouncing on the courthouse steps.

Someday, we trust, the Magnolia State will rejoin the civilized world, with freedom, humanity and democracy for all its inhabitants. Until that time, liberty-loving Hoosiers want no Mississippi Governors or other officials setting foot on our soil, to notice what our avenues may or may not be named.

Mississippi Street! No thanks!

Invest in Community Through United Fund

A contribution to the United Fund is an investment in the community's welfare. All of us are quick to aid in the face of a major catastrophe, but we tend to forget that disasters happen every day. Accidents, illness, crippling diseases, loss of income, broken homes, juvenile problems — these are crises that may be remote to us at the moment but which can strike any of us with budget-wrecking suddenness.

They are no less tragic or deserving because they do not affect a great mass of people simultaneously.

The Negro community, almost traditionally, has failed to come up to its quota in the annual United Fund drive. This is mildly ironic when it is realized that a major portion of the fund's expenditures directly benefit Negro citizens. And when we realize how much money is spent by the Negro community on liquor, dances and simply having a "big time," it becomes ridiculous for any one of us to fail to give — and give generously — to the United Fund.

An increasingly large number of organizations — including the YMCA, YWCA, Flanner House, Family Service Association, Legal Aid Society, Crossroads Rehabilitation Center and other youth, old-age, health and family agencies — are counting on our willingness to help them continue to help us. Can we — dare we — let them down?

DID IT AGAIN. WILL HE BE PERMITTED TO DO IT IN '60?

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A Call for Loyalty

By The Union Baptist Alliance
REV. J. T. HIGHBAUGH, Editor

(LARGER LESSON: Malachi 2:17; 3:1-4; 16-17; MEMORIZE: Psalm 101:6) ORY VERSE: Psalm 101:6 We have traveled these 13 weeks with great souls with God, who, for reasons unknown to us, did not get the approbation "major" prophets. And many, many times that may be true with you. Others in your church may take the spotlight, but the Great Searcher of Hearts of men will tell in the judgment who are the real wheat and who are the tares. Won't He?

Malachi is the Old Testament book closest to the New Testament not only in arrangement but also in thought. It is the most nature and developed of the 39, written as it was during the absence of Nehemiah at the court, when many of the priests and Levites had fled to the fields and left the temple in the hands of San Ballat and Tobiah, foreigners and strangers to the temple of Israel.

That is, the temple was rented out to strangers. Against this background, Malachi prophesied.

Think of these five approaches to this lesson:

GOD'S LOVE FOR HIS PEOPLE (Malachi 1:15) In spite of Israel's careless regard for God and worship, God opens His great book with the assurance "I have loved you with an everlasting love."

Like Edom of old had pulled down Israel's gates and delivered Israel to Babylon's sword, yet God reassured His love.

This book opens with such a consoling message. No other god can love his own irrespective of good or evil. So we sing:

"Oh how I love Jesus, because He first loved me." SING OF THE PRIESTS (Malachi 1:6-29) The irony of the last paragraph is focused on the background of sin. It starts at the house of the Lord and reaches the world over.

The old preacher told them judgment must begin at the house of the Lord, and if the righteous barely escape, what shall the wicked and the ungodly do?

To preach, or just to write this lesson, is judgment. Why, the very pressures of living make us go in quest of bread. The preacher's child must be educated and his faithful wife looks to him for the necessities of life.

And often, because of the empty-temple storehouse, the meat is not there.

However, Malachi keeps before the priests: "Food or no food, you are the keepers of my altar fires and must never forsake their keeping."

Also, he calls the priests to a high-grade offering to God. Being the Lord of all the earth, He is worthy of all the honor and will not share His honor with others. Therefore, any approval of a cheap offering is disloyalty to my Maker. I am God's messenger, with little or much in respect or reproach.

"I would be strong, for there is much to suffer."

"I would be brave, for there is much to dare."

SING OF THE PEOPLE (Malachi 2:14-17; 3:7-15) But all the sins are not the preacher's, careless as we may seem to be. He had some indictments for other people, too.

The first sin of the people is to do the unjust thing to our fellowman, to treat any man, woman or child unfairly.

Here, God identifies Himself with the last, the least and the lost, and says, "Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these, My little ones, you did it unto Me."

Second, God regards it as adulterous to intermarry for profit, for position or for sheer lust. In Malachi 2:11-16, He re-emphasizes the sacredness of the marriage vow and that its only unity is the Holy Spirit.

Third, the people concluded that there was and is no character stand with God (Malachi 2:17). To so court human approval that we dismiss morality is open rebellion against God and man.

To so court human favors as to flout God's Word and His judgments is abomination. Anxious as we might be of another war, no communizing of character and spiritual ideals will bring world security.

As much as we may desire closer relationships in Protestantism, no sacrifice of basic Bible truths can create a family of Christians.

Our unity must be in God and Him alone.

Fourth, they had withheld the tithe (Malachi 3:7-12). Any consented acceptance of less than the tithe as a standard of giving is a cheapening of our Christ below His antitypes. To withhold tithes is to rob God.

Fifth, they had desecrated the Sabbath (Nehemiah 13:15-22). To be so covetous as to have no time to worship or merely to make the Sabbath a day of good times is a great sin.

WHO'S WHO WITH GOD (Malachi 3:16-18). Dr. G. S. Gordon once preached a great sermon on this text. He talked about "Who's Who" with Tobias, San Ballat, and the big trusts, the socialites.

Then he closed with Ezra, Nehemiah, Zechariah, Malachi, men of real worth — men who, like Ezra, could compile history; men who, like Nehemiah, could be a wall and temple-builder; men who, like Zechariah, could see ahead; men who, like Malachi, could restore the worship of the church.

THE DAY OF THE LORD (Malachi 4:1-6). He saw the first and second advent. He saw not only himself as a messenger but he saw John the great baptizer, the Elijah of the New Testament, and then the Messenger of the Covenant refining the dross from life.

Herbert Gables in the old San Francisco refinery was once asked to test a 50-pound gold nugget for its worth. The answer was direct and convincing: "It must be tried by the fire, my boy. It must be tried by fire. And when dross is all gone, the refiner sees his likeness come back from the heat, you knew the dross is all gone and the top is all pure."

The Billy Graham Crusade -- A Sign of Frustration

By Andrew W. Ramsey

The closing days of the summer of 1959 find America in the midst of mammoth frustrations on every hand.

On the national and local scenes, vital questions remain unanswered, and the leaders in those particular areas of our national life seem either unwilling or unable to act.

The effect of the inaction of American leadership on the problems which affect the commonality of the American people has been to produce in the rank and file of Americans a sense of utter hopelessness. Untrained in the exercise of thought and having lost confidence in those to whom they have characteristically and customarily looked for guidance, the masses of little Americans have resorted to primitive methods of relieving their tensions.

They have relied upon the rabble-rousers, whether they be of the political or more occult persuasion.

For instance, in the emotional storm proceeding from the Supreme Court's mandate to desegregate the nation's schools, the die-hards, lacking any guidance from the head of the national government and too steeped in ignorance to accept a rational approach to the problem, have been pawing in the hands of more or less unscrupulous manipulators of human emotions.

THE RISING COST of living, the tug-o-war between big business and organized labor, with the resultant strikes and lockouts and the concomitant economic insecurity of the masses of American workers and consumers, have so bewildered most Americans that they hardly know to whom to turn. The cold war and the possibility of a live one, as well as the other international tensions, heightened by the visit of the man painted by the American opinion industry as the modern incarnation of the Devil, Nikita Khrushchev, coupled with the claims and counter claims of congressional leaders, make the common American almost afraid of his shadow.

At such a time, when the leading newspapers of the country practically invite the American people to be crude to our guest from the Soviet Union and a "respectable" firm like Allen-Bradley of Milwaukee inserts full-page ads in newspapers attacking Mr. Khrushchev and governors and mayors openly insult the man by asking that he not visit their bailiwicks and parents in New York City keep their children away from school rather than allow them to attend classes with Negroes, and Puerto Ricans, the public loses faith in the very institutions which have always meant law and order and decorum in American life.

The American people have been let down by their schools, which have left them ignorant rather than disturbed the status quo. They have been let down by the national government and the 86th Congress, which represented government by agreed stalemate.

Many of them feel double-crossed by the Congress, as indeed they were.

Labor was given a stone instead of bread when the Congress passed a bill to weaken the labor movement instead of the promised one to rid the unions of racketeers.

AMERICAN NEGROES were let down when the Northern Republicans, led by Indiana's Charles Halleck, in exchange for the note of the Southern Democrats on the labor-shackling bill, buried any chance of a decent civil rights bill or a bill to protect the rights of Negroes to vote in Dark America.

Housing, education, public welfare all lost one way or another in the 86th Congress.

Facing such overwhelming defeats at the hands of its public servants, the American public naturally sought relief from other sources.

To some members of this public, alcohol and apathy were the answer. But for teetotalers, another answer had to be found. That answer was the much vaunted "old-time religion."

And that is where the Rev. Mr. Billy Graham, purveyor of mass hysteria and fundamentalism à la William Jennings Bryan, comes in.

The Rev. Mr. Graham and his promoters and advance agents realize that the Americans who are not satisfied with the old-time automobile or house are eager to accept, for a time at least, the tranquilizing effects of the "old-time religion."

And Mr. Graham is equally at home in Little Rock and New York because his only references to the actual problems affecting the people will be framed in very general terms.

He is acceptable to the manipulators of the political and business life of the community as he is to their victims because he has no program for mass action. He makes his appeal to the individual and his immortal soul.

He merely gives with alarm, listens to some confessions and goes on his merry way.

The churches who cooperate have a few more parishioners added for a time to their rolls, and life goes on in the community as it did before his great campaign.

Perhaps such an escape valve as Mr. Graham is necessary. But maybe if he remained silent, the people might develop a taste for a religion as up-to-date as the cars they drive, one which might help them solve the problems their leaders shun. Perhaps.

True Delinquency Picture Hard to Obtain

By Goldie Ivory

To obtain a true, accurate, statistical report on the juvenile problem in any county, one must first have a clear, concise definition of delinquency and, secondly, a uniform category of delinquent acts whereby there would be no question as to the classification of a specific act.

It has been often stated that one can make statistics prove or disprove what one so desires. The author finds this age old axiom to be true.

As was pointed out in the previous column, the person in charge of categorizing delinquency. It is the stern belief of the author that until there is a complete evaluation and review of the present classification and categorization of delinquent or decrease in juvenile delinquent acts can make the statistical report reveal an increase acts, we cannot and will not have a TRUE picture of our juvenile delinquency in any county in the United States.

I. Richard Perlman, chief of the Juvenile Delinquency Statistics Section of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington, has been contacted regarding this problem, and he writes that he is aware that the present classification system is inadequate.

"The Children's Bureau," he writes, "is now at the point where it believes a careful review of the present reporting system, including items of information such as classification of reasons for referral, is needed."

"We expect to undertake this review shortly."

Yes, juvenile delinquency is increasing. And yet, this positive statement must be qualified with a few observations:

First, as has been pointed out, the term "juvenile delinquency" is a rather nebulous one, for it has different meanings and definitions within and among juvenile courts, sociologists and other professional people associated with the problem.

Second, the term and status governing delinquent acts are so broad and all-inclusive that many any act can be viewed as a delinquent act.

Third, the methods of apprehension, record-keeping, the number employed in the profession have tremendously increased, thereby disclosing delinquent acts heretofore "looked-over" and/or "forgotten."

And, finally, the number of children who fall within the juvenile delinquency age range has surged since pre-war days.

Things You Should Know

MUSCA domestica, stay away from my door! We are referring to the ordinary house fly which every summer is a pest. Not only are flies a nuisance, they are a menace to health.

Flies are born in decaying matter and most of their lives are spent in this environment. Flies frolic in filth, dote on dirt, gloat on garbage.

A fly will wallow around in germ-laden filth, fly right to your table and wipe his dirty feet on the slice of bread you are going to eat. Or, he drags disease-spreading germs around the edge of the cream pitcher. If he can get on baby's fingers or lips, he is happy.

Flies are amazingly prolific. One pair of flies, starting out in the spring, will have over 5 billion descendants by mid-summer. Killing flies in the spring time helps, but it is impossible to eradicate all flies.

Billups Leads Howe; Chucks Stun 'Experts'

Howe's darlin', slithering little halfback Darlan Billups, was altogether too slippery for Attucks' Tigers in the final stages of their game last week, and we have an idea he will be for Manual too this week.

When Billups sees daylight, he's through it in a flash — which is the principal reason he's scored 32 points and the Hornets are unbeaten in two games.

Howe was scheduled to play at Manual on Friday night, Sept. 25. Meanwhile Attucks was slated for its first out-of-town match at Jeffersonville the same night.

Unlike Billups, the Tigers as a team have yet to break into the scoring column. Their rugged defense made a stalemate of it for almost three quarters at the CYO Stadium last week. But you can't win on defense alone, and Graham Martin's boys finally took a 19-0 pasting.

Attucks even had a statistical edge the first half, racking up 6 first downs to 5 for Howe. Halfbacks Andrew Sims and Isadore Robinson turned in a couple of long runs — Sims "almost" got away on one round right end.

FOLLOWING THE INTERMISSION, however, it was all Howe. A march paid off midway of the 3rd quarter when Billups knifed over from the 1.

It was still anybody's game, with fullback William Gee's booming punts setting the Hornets back time and again. Then with 4:50 left in the contest, Hornet quarterback Jim Hower intercepted a pass in the flat on the Attucks 35-yard stripe, and was off to the races. Billups kicked the point.

With 2 minutes to go, Howe added 7 more when a 70-yard pass from Hower to Ron Guidone carried to the 1-yard line. Billups plunged it over from there.

William Walker, Claude Williams and Reginald Jones played well defensively for Attucks. Halfback Mansfield Lambirth and ends Alan Nuckols and Claude Hardin saw service for Howe.

Bulldogs Have 'Lonesome Back'

The barely interracial Butler Bulldogs had an easy time disposing of Bradley in the Bowl Saturday, 27-0.

keeps the Bulldogs honest. Joe turned in a dependable though not spectacular performance.

Our town loses something as hardly any local tan athletes turn up at Butler, we regret to observe. Larry Williams, after transferring from St. Joe, will be eligible next fall. "Muffin" Williams from Shortridge has enrolled as a freshman, but Attucks' Larry McIntyre — who was earlier reported Butler-bound — chose Tennessee State instead.

The cause of this deplorable situation can't be given lacking accurate inside reports.

BRADLEY IS OKAY integration-wise but not up to football snuff. Studied with underclassmen, the Braves might be good but not this year.

Covance Cabell, a 190-lb. freshman fullback from Waukegan, Ill., continued to lead the team in rushing.

Other tan players for the visitors were Chuck Coleman, 250-lb. sophomore tackle from Champaign; Joe Cunningham, 190-lb. junior end from South Haven; Mich., and Tom Banks, 190-lb. freshman center from Evanston, Ill.

Butler plays at Wabash Saturday. Next home game will be against Indiana State Oct. 10. — C.S.P.

Mayer Chapel Coach Observes 25th Year in Amateur Boxing

It's hard to believe — because the doesn't seem much older than that — but one of the city's best-known boxing figures is celebrating a quarter-century in the amateur fight game.

A. C. "Al" Allen, recreational director and boxing coach at Mayer Chapel, started boxing as a boy in Louisville in 1934. And how will he observe the 25th anniversary of his entrance into the squared circle? By training a brand new team for the Golden Gloves, he says, as he has been doing ever since 1949.

Born at Isola, Miss., Allen moved at an early age to Louisville and then on to Chicago, where he was the Sub-Novice 126-lb. CYO champion in 1939. He was a teammate of world champion Harold Dade, Freddie Dawson and Bobby Satterfield before joining the U. S. Marines in 1942.

While in the Marines he developed three championship teams. Continued on Page 16

CLEVELAND — A home run by Al Smith, formerly of the Indianapolis Indians, proved the winning run as Chicago beat Cleveland, 4-2, here Tuesday to wrap up the American League championship.

Jim Perry started for the Tribe and hurled 5 innings, trailing 2-1 when he was lifted for a pinch-hitter. The following story was prepared before the game.

CLEVELAND (ANP) — Jim Perry of the Cleveland Indians, a 22-year-old stringbean who has turned in superlative pitching performances in the Tribe's last-ditch drive, looms as one of the hottest candidates for Rookie-of-the-Year laurels.

The North Carolina farm boy who reported to the Indians' spring training camp as a batting practice hurler last February has been the league's outstanding pitcher in the past three weeks.

His record at this writing of 12 victories and 9 losses plus 10 saves in relief will earn him serious consideration when the Rookie-of-the-Year balloting is held.

WHEN PERRY JOINED the Indians in Tucson after a 16-8 record with Reading of the Class A Eastern League last season, he promptly established himself as a Damon Runyon character by telling everyone, "I came here to stay."

When one of the Cleveland veterans noticed him loading up at the training table, he remarked, "Man, you sure can eat!"

"I can pitch too," replied Perry positively. And pitch well he did in eye-y one of his spring appearances.

The youngster was used in relief during the early part of the 1959 campaign. His first outstanding major league performance came in the 8th inning of a game May 12 in Yankee Stadium.

THIS COLUMN is being asked just where are our colored officers (?) when things happen along the main stem . . . They seem to think that too many calls are being answered by ofay policemen in districts, which some people say, are strictly Negro beats . . . The same is true of the Fire Department . . . You seldom see them . . . they come and they go like ghouls . . . Even when fires break out within a good stone's throw of their fine new headquarters . . . A few years back we read in a local paper about an "Aveeno" lieutenant, and later we were told by a certain sergeant that when he raided an ofay joint in West Indianapolis, he was reminded of the fact that his "beat" was Indiana Ave. . . . If this is true NOW, then where are the officers who are supposed to handle this area . . . Are they always busy when something happens on the main stem? . . . And while on the subject, we like a lotta other people, are wondering just why so many homicides among our folk are investigated by ofay dicks in preference to our homicide (?) sleuths . . . Or do we have any?

WE REALLY ENJOYED the sermon on "The Thinking Man" by the Rev. Clinton M. Marsh of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church over channel 8-WISH TV last Sunday morning . . . We would appreciate the dear Reverend and others of the cloth doing a sermon on "The Thinking Parents," outlining the responsibility of the parent to the child and vice versa . . . And also pointing out the pitfalls that await teenagers in petty stealing, dope addiction and prostitution. We believe the church can do much towards telling the parents of their responsibilities . . . And of their negligence in not having the faintest idea as to what their children do from day to day . . . This might prove to be the shot-in-the-arm needed to wake up parents to the goings-on among their children.

A NEGRO INSPECTOR? A piece in Sunday's Star mentions the possibility of Captain Anthony Watkins becoming the first Negro inspector should Mayor Boswell be successful in the coming election . . . Whether this is a political plug for the mayor or not, it is something to look forward to. Whatcha-bet!

WE HAVE continuously mentioned the promotion of Negro police officers to high rank in other cities, and with just this thought in mind, so it naturally follows that we, who have fought for promotions for the past 20 years, are 100 percent for the idea, and the man. So help us!

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE . . . A well-dressed man walked into a pub, ordered a double scotch, gulped it, placed a pound on the counter and walked out.

The barman carefully folded the note and put it in his pocket. As he looked up he saw the proprietor looking at him.

"What a crazy character," said the barman, "He buys a drink, gives me a tip and walks out without paying."

MOTORIST (after knocking over a butcher's boy): "Are you hurt, my boy?" Butcher's boy (picking up the contents of his basket): "I dunno, here's me liver and ribs, but where's me kidneys?"

"Was your friend shocked over the death of his mother-in-law?"

"Shocked! He was electrocuted."

THOSE BROKEN SPECS . . . Seems as if Deputy Sheriff DeWitt D. Hector will get his new glasses . . . His specs were ruined when a prisoner hit him on the face. The request for the $37 pair of glasses was approved by Sheriff O'Neal and County Commissioner J. Wesley Brown, for presentation to the County Council, because the specs were broken in the line of duty.

DIXIE BABY NAMED "NIKITA" . . . BELONZI, Miss. (ANP) — Two "Nikitas" arrived in the U. S. last Tuesday — one, Nikita S. Khrushchev; the other was delivered by Sir Stork to Eugene and Cleotha Fleming an hour before the Soviet premier arrived.

A boy, the eighth child of the Flemings, the newly arrived one posed a problem for the couple. Fresh out of names, they decided to call the child, "Nikita."

DEADEYE DICK . . . Dead shot Detective Sergeant Albert Booth was among the local sharpshooters in the annual Indiana State Police Invitational Pistol Meet at Putnamville last week.

Others on the winning team were: Inspector Daniel Veza, Patrolman Denzel Poindexter and Lieut. Kenneth Luke. The four won a total of three plaques and 12 medals in competition in the .22, .38 and .45-caliber divisions.

A LITTLE GIRL in the lift of one of the tallest buildings in New York gasped nervously as she passed the fiftieth floor, and said to her father: "Pop, does God know we're coming?"

THE OWNER of a corner saloon was sleeping peacefully at 3 o'clock in the morning, when his phone rang.

"What time does your saloon open?" asked a rather drunken voice.

"Eleven o'clock," said the saloon keeper and slammed down the phone.

An hour later, the bell rang again. The same voice asked, "What time didshoo shay your saloon open?"

"Eleven o'clock damn it," roared the proprietor, "and you can't get in a minute before."

"Who wants to get in?" said a very hurt voice. "I want to get out."

NOTE: The following (ANP) dispatch is used here verbatim because it tells of the opening of a low-rent housing project for elderly persons . . . a pet idea of ours for years here in Indianapolis . . . Open First Low-Rent Housing For Elderly Persons:

Monthly Rentals $35-$45

ASBURY PARK, N. J. (ANP) —

A new six-story elevator apartment structure just completed at this seaside resort, first in the New York metropolitan region designed for occupancy by low-income elderly tenants under the U. S. Housing Act of 1956, opened its doors last Wednesday.

Ceremonies celebrating the event were attended by senior citizens of the city, including the 50 tenants selected out of hundreds of applications received by the local housing authority. Rentals will range from $35 to $45 monthly including utilities.

The new development, known as Comstock Court, was developed and is owned by the Asbury Park Housing Authority. The PHA, pursuant to the provisions of federal law, provided financial assistance in the form of loans and subsidy to make the development economically feasible for elderly occupancy.

"Dear Sir:

"That time has come again when the booking captains and head-waiters in these hotel and clubs can sit back in various bars and prize gambling joints and spend the money that was rightfully the extra waiters' that they booked for that day."

"The thing that puzzles me is how long are the waiters, the managers and the program committees of these banquets going to let them get away with such tactics? Or do they condone such policies to supplement the salaries of their department heads?"

"I doubt if very many people will see and read this, but I'm going to write every paper in the city and in the state if necessary, because in the 50 years or more that I've been waiting on tables in nearly every state in the U.S.A., this state is the worst I've seen about just unscrupulously taking away a man's livelihood. Why, a person with any kind of feeling at all even hates to see a dog that has to dig in a garbage pail to get enough to live on."

"The people who give these banquets, if they leave $5.00 or $6.00 for the waiter they think he gets it, but if the waiter gets $2.50 out of the tip he's very lucky. Let's go to school. The house will pay him $2.00 to $3.00 per meal and that's putting it high after deduction, his $1.95-$2.85 and he gets $2.00-$2.50 tip so he's got either $3.95-$5.35 at best, because if the house pays him $3.00 his tip is going to be cut accordingly. Well, he pays 46-cents transportation; 25-cents for a clean shirt; up to 25c for a shoe-shine if he doesn't do it himself. He should keep his hair trimmed and he most certainly needs deodorant. Now figure his take home pay for a day, because he'll have to sit around so long that he can't get boked anywhere else that evening."

"So I ask is it fair to take the little money that he is making?"

"Really I think something should be done about it."

Henry Fonda Stars in 'Warlock,' Excitin' Pix at Walker Sunday

Henry Fonda, starring in Twentieth Century-Fox's epic Western "Warlock" opening at the Walker Theater on Sunday, in the long span of his career has appeared in only a handful of outdoor adventure pictures, but they've made an indelible impression on the movie-going public.

Two of his early Westerns were "Jesse James" and "The Return of Frank James." In his character portrayal in these pictures Fonda exploded the myth that the hero of Westerns had to appear astride a white horse, impeccably attired, and always, win the girl in the last reel. As Frank James he sported a brush mustache, rode a brown horse and invariably looked as grimy as any cowboy just off the range. This integrity of character became his hallmark as he reeled off some of the most important action-adventure dramas to come out of Hollywood. "The Ox-Bow Incident," "Fort Apache" and "My Darling Clementine" are outstanding examples of the Fonda technique of looking as the characters might have looked then. The soiled ten-gallon hat; the worn sheepskin coat; and the dusty chaps have made Henry Fonda the most honest looking cowboy since William S. Hart rode down the pike.

In "Warlock" Fonda portrays a reformed gun-fighter who becomes marshal of a lawless town. Once again the air of authenticity is apparent as in direct contrast to his earlier portrayals Fonda over-acts the dusty chaps have made Henry Fonda the most honest looking cowboy since William S. Hart rode down the pike. In "Warlock" Fonda portrays a reformed gun-fighter who becomes marshal of a lawless town. ## FBI Agents to Testify In Mississippi Lynch Case

COLUMBIA, Miss.—FBI agents who investigated the lynching of Mack C. Parker, suspected of the rape of a white woman, will be called in as witnesses when the case is presented to the grand jury, it has been revealed.

District Attorney Vernon Broome said contents of the report turned over to him by Gov. J. P. Coleman would be uncovered through the testimony of the FBI men who compiled it.

He said the 370-page report itself would not be read to the jury because it is "entirely hearsay evidence."

The document is believed to contain the names of at least seven white men allegedly members of a hooded mob that broke into the unguarded Pearl River County Jail last April 25 and dragged the screaming Parker from his cell.

His bullet-pierced body was found May 4 in Pearl River. R. W. Bachman, New Orleans, FBI agent in charge of the month-long investigation promised his men would testify.

"We will render every possible assistance, if requested, and will make agents available to testify, if requested," he said.

Broome, meanwhile, said he has been preparing a case which he will present to the Pearl River County Grand Jury on Nov. 4. He also said he would have the FBI agents and other witnesses present for testimony.

"Then," he said, "it will be up to the jurors to decide what disposition to make."

land B. Smith, pastor, First Baptist Church, Little Rock, and secretary of the National Baptist Training Union board; W. Harry Bass, Methodist Church; Dr. Marquis Lafayette Harris, president, Philander Smith College, and former Methodist minister; and Bishop Sherman, African Methodist Episcopal Church.

The unanimous decision thus reverses the ruling handed down by the Pulaski Chancery court, upholding both acts in their entirety.

While the court did not void both acts, what it actually did amounted almost to that. In the first place, the state's highest tribunal ripped out the commission's all-powerful authority to seize records of any person or organization at will.

Although the commission, since its creation, had not attempted to use these powers, the court held that such authority made it potentially dangerous to an individual's rights.

IN THE DECISION, written by Justice Ed F. McFadden, the court said:

"We cannot put the stamp of approval on Section 11 of the Act (creating the Sovereignty Commission), which would allow the commission, or its members or representatives, without search warrants or judicial process, to conduct an examination of the records, books, documents and other papers of anyone just as might be desired because it literally allows the commission to go at will and examine all of the books of any person without notice, search warrant or judicial process."

"While we are anxious to preserve the state's sovereignty, we must be just as anxious to preserve the constitutional safeguards of the citizens. We are dealing with the rights of citizens, and the constitutional guarantees are superior to the legislative enactments."

The court had no dispute with other portions of the act authorizing the use of "subpoena powers through the courts in the orderly and constitutional manner of procedure."

The court, however, refused to void completely the law creating the commission as requested by the original plaintiffs — a group of ministers headed by Rev. R.

Preventing Home Fires Is Matter of Life and Death

Fire Chief Arnold W. Phillips announced this week that Indianapolis will join with thousands of communities across the country in observing Fire Prevention Week from Oct. 4 through Oct. 10.

"Our aim during Fire Prevention Week," Chief Phillips stated, "will be to sell everyone on the idea that fire prevention is a life-and-death matter; that each individual owes it to himself, to his family and his community to think and act fire-safe every day of the year."

"Fatal fires are not accidents," the chief added. "They happen when small children are left alone in a home, when someone smokes off with cigarette in hand, when a portable oil stove is tipped over, or when rubbish accumulates in cellars and attics."

"It's the simple things like these that again and again cause tragic deaths from fire."

Then the chief said emphatically, "If the equally simple rules of fire safety are observed by people everywhere, we can practically erase our present sorry record—about 11,500 lives lost to fire each year in the United States, plus tens of thousands more burned and disfigured."

THE PRINCIPLE VICTIMS are old people and children, he said: "Fire prevention is everyone's job every day of the year."

Chief Phillips continued "Urging the citizens of Indianapolis to accept and act on this fact is the most important message I can offer for Fire Prevention Week."

Chief Phillips concluded by explaining that nine out of 10 home fires could be prevented if everyone would:

1. Keep matches and lighters away from tiny hands and encourage adults to smoke safely, and never in bed.

2. Stop misusing electricity by improper fusing, overloading circuits and depending on defective wiring and appliances.

3. Have the heating equipment and chimney cleaned, inspected, and defects repaired annually.

4. Use fire-retardant roofing and paints.

5. Never allow gasoline, benzene, naphtha or similar volatile flammable liquids in the home for any purpose—never use such flammable liquids for dry cleaning or to kindle a fire.

6. Keep rubbish and unnecessary combustibles regularly removed from the home.

But when she arrived here, her first stop was to enter Doctor's Hospital for a rest. She said she was "just worn out."

Fresh from playing a strenuous two-week engagement at the Apollo theater here, Eartha is rehearsing for a Broadway play—among other things—and the eight-day date in Pittsburgh was just too much.

No amount of coaxing could stir the star to returning to the stage once she walked off.

Anderson Church Hosts Missionary

The first missionary mass meeting of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the AME Zion Church of the Indianapolis-Evansville Districts of the Indiana Conference was held recently at Wallace AME Zion Church in Anderson, Mrs. Mattie W. Anderson, district president, presiding.

The morning session of worship service and the reading of reports was highlighted with the noonday message brought by Rev. Virgil Alexander, pastor of Allene Chapel AME Zion Church.

"The Duty of the Present Day Christian Church" was the subject of his message, geared to teach church members their responsibility to the church and how they to sue.

The Indianapolis Recorder, Sept. 26, 1959-13

Negro Teachers Get 'Ax'; Request Supreme Court Aid

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Supreme Court has been asked to review a lower federal court ruling which sustained the refusal of the Boberly, Mo., school board to re-hire the contracts when the system was desegregated.

A petition seeking a hearing on the case by the high court was filed her on Sept. 14 by NAACP General Counsel Robert L. Carter of New York City and Robert L. Witherspoon, St. Louis attorney.

Signing the petition as of counsel were Mrs. Irma Robbins Feder, Lee V. Swinton and William L. Taylor.

Eleven Negro teachers with service of from one to 30 years were discharged by the Boberly board in 1955 when Negro pupils were absorbed into schools attended by white pupils.

Although the board subsequently employed additional white teachers it refused to reinstate any colored teachers despite their qualifications and experience.

The teachers where contracts had been terminated enlisted the aid of the NAACP and filed suit in the United States District Court, contending that the refusal to renew their contracts was "based upon discrimination barred by the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment."

THE CASE WAS TRIED on its merits in August, 1956. Two years later, on Oct. 2, 1958, the court upheld the Boberly school board.

This decision was appealed to the United States Court of Appeals which on June 17, 1959, sustained the opinion and judgment of the lower court.

Contending that the lower courts' ruling "cannot be reconciled with previous decisions of the Supreme Court and that the case represents an issue of great public importance," the petition asks for a review of the lower courts' decisions and a hearing of the case before the Supreme Court.

Three out of four people interviewed in a national survey by the University of Michigan Research Center said Americans should buy and hold U. S. Savings Bonds. Reasons given: "Good investment" and "Good way to save."

Summer Vacation Is Over — Now Let's Get Flabby

Well, vacations are over for another year, so let's all relax and get flabby, pale, overweight and tired again.

If that doesn't strike you as very smart, you'll be glad to know that it needn't happen.

If you think only of push-ups and knee-bends when wintertime exercise come to mind, it's no wonder you prefer to lie down and think of something else.

But how about bowling? Or swimming in the indoor pools which can be found in many communities?

Or just taking a short walk? The dog will be happy to accompany you.

Though you probably use up more energy during your vacation, the chances are good that you actually eat less than you do during the rest of the year.

Those wintertime coffee breaks, TV snacks and beers, hot thick soups, extra bread, all add up to unneeded calories and unwanted poundage.

You probably get more sleep during your vacation, too

Extension of 'Rights' Group Not Enough, Says NAACP Head

NEW YORK — The extension of the Civil Rights Commission, "while justified and welcome, is in no sense a substitute for legislative action of the kind the commission's own investigations have shown to be so necessary," NAACP executive secretary Roy Wilkins charged in a statement issued last week on the failure of the first session of the 86th Congress to enact meaningful civil rights legislation.

Mr. Wilkins stated, "The wind-up of the 86th Congress' first session has been characterized by numerous pot-mortems contrasting the bright hopes held for it at the start with the insignificant record of its eight months of work."

"In no respect was this contrast more dismal than in the case of vitally needed civil rights legislation."

"Despite clear evidence of systematic denial of voting rights and of widespread refusal to start toward compliance with the Supreme Court's desegregation rulings, the Congress submitted to brazen manipulation by Southern committee chairmen and supinely abandoned any attempt to pass civil rights bills at the first session."

"Two conclusions may and should be drawn: First, the derelictions as well as the dedicated striving to overcome them were fairly shared by both parties."

"Republicans and Democrats alike contributed their share of do-nothings and of valiant battles for meaningful action."

"But in a Democratically-controlled Congress, the onus of failure (as well as the kudos for achievement, if any) belongs chiefly to the Democrats."

"Second, it must be said that the Democrats dug the hole in which they spent most of the session when they failed at the very outset to assume a decisive posture by adopting reasonable rules for the control of filibusters."

"The Democratic leadership imposed its own handicuffs. It served notice that this would be a session not of imaginative coming-to-grips with basic issues, but of shadow-boxing and avoidance of injury to everyone's feelings."

"In this kind of atmosphere the will to achieve could not survive and the leadership's last-minute efforts to revive it were doomed to failure."

"Surgeons Johnson and Rayburn had removed the Congress' spine in January and their act was not adequate to replacing it in August."

"The NAACP and its supporters throughout the country will keep a watchful eye on the implementation of the bi-partisan leadership agreement to take up civil rights legislation in the second session, on next Feb. 15."

"In the meantime, it will continue to make the issues clear to the American people and to maintain notice that only genuine and meaningful legislation will meet the need."

No Little Rock In New York City?

NEW YORK (ANP) — Although their "leaders" had declared publicly that there would be "no Little Rock in Glendale, Long Island," the parents' boycott which affected 1,100 white students has received almost as much publicity as Governor Faubus' court defiance.

The white students stayed home to protest the transfer of 300 Negro students from the crowded Bedford-Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn.

White parents claim the transfer was based on ethnic integration rather than the educational needs of the Negro children.

Earlier this year, the white parents picketed City Hall as part of their organized protest.

Man 'Not Guilty' In Rape of Girl, 16

MACON, Ga. — An all-white jury freed a 26-year-old white man this week, charged in the rape of a 15-year-old Negro baby-sitter. Tommy P. Daniels admitted on the stand he had relations with the girl, but said she submitted willingly to his advances.

For a white waitress while she was working, testified Daniels threatened to kill her if she made an outcry.

Solicitor General (prosecutor) William West did not demand the death penalty for Daniels, but told the jury to determine the truth and if Daniels was guilty of rape to sentence him to death.

In his final argument defense attorney Abe Crosby Jr. contended the girl submitted willingly "and when the pressure was put on she held her tongue."

He did not explain his statement concerning pressure.

Five Arrested In Little Rock Bombing Spree

LITTLE ROCK (ANP) — Five men who reportedly took part in the Labor Day bombings here have been arrested and charged with destroying property with explosives. One has been released on bail and the other four were still in jail in lieu of their $50,000 bonds.

Arrested were John Taylor Gogins, a carpenter; Samuel Graydon Beaver, 49, a car salesman; Jesse R. Perry, 34, a truck driver; E. A. Lauderdale, 48, a truck dealer and director of the segregationist Capital Citizens Council; and 35-year-old J. D. Sims, a truck driver. Sims, a Ku Klux Klanist, admitted taking part in the three bombings which damaged a school board office, the mayor's office and a city-owned station wagon assigned to the fire chief.

He reportedly remarked that he used three sticks of dynamite on the station wagon and 10 on the school.

Why He "didn't want my 11-year-old daughter to go to school with niggers."

Picked up as he was leaving church services, Sims refused the free services of Amos Guthridge, Little Rock, segregationist attorney, who is representing Lauderdale.

Lauderdale was freed the day after his arrest when a trio of his friends pledged a total of $200,000 in property as a guarantee. He was defeated as a segregationist candidate for the city manager board in 1957.

The FBI worked with local police officials on the case from the start. Three of the men were arrested Sept. 9, the others the following day.

NAACP Attorney To Speak Before Baha'i Gathering

Attorney George Brawley, NAACP Legal Redress Committee member, will speak on "The Destiny of America" at the observance of Baha'i Proclamation Day on Sunday, 2:30 p.m., at the Indiana World War Memorial.

Mr. Brawley, a graduate of the University of Toledo School of Law, is a former instructor in sociology at the Chicago Teachers College and has traveled extensively as a member of the Baha'i Interracial Teaching Committee.

He also served as chairman of the Mayor's Commission on Human Rights in Milwaukee, and for the past four years has lectured on criminology and human relations at several Midwestern colleges.

The purpose of Proclamation Day, says Dr. Harnoz Broumand, chairman of the local Baha'i assembly, "is to spread the knowledge of the spiritual basis for universal peace."

The Baha'is believe the time has come for Americans to rise from their present material attainments and vigorously proclaim the unity of mankind and promote permanent world peace.

Dr. Broumand further stated that world peace, to be stable and permanent, "must be laid on the foundation of the consciousness of the oneness of mankind."

Closes Lunch Bar To Avoid Serving Integrated Group

MIAMI — The lunch counter at Byron's, a large Miami department store, closed down completely last week rather than serve an integrated group who came for service.

The Greater Miami Committee on Racial Equality, sponsors of a 16-day Interracial Action Institute in the city, held a series of "sit-ins" after determining the policy of the luncheon counter was clearly discriminatory and after negotiations with management showed no possibilities of a change in policy.

Participants in the sit-in at the luncheon counter reported customer reaction to be unsympathetic to management policy and a willingness to accept non-discriminatory practices.

The seating at the lunch counter by the group resulted in its closing on Thursday, Saturday, and Monday. On Tuesday, Sept. 15, the luncheon counter did not open at all, apparently in anticipation of continued action by the group.

The Miami downtown department stores do a large amount of trade with Negroes but refuse to serve them seated at luncheon counters in the stores.

This is the present target of the Congress of Racial Equality in Miami, designed to establish better racial relationships in the community.

N. Y. Group To Help Ease Race Tensions

NEW YORK (ANP) — Mayor Wagner has named a committee of 22 persons to help reduce racial tension in Harlem.

Headed by Deputy Mayor Paul T. O'Keefe, the committee consists of five city officials and 17 representatives from Harlem.

The committee will work with the administration to shape and implement a program to "eliminate or abate" conditions that tend to cause tension, the mayor said.

Last July, he promised to appoint a Committee on Harlem Affairs, after a City Hall meeting with Harlem representatives and heads of city departments and agencies concerned with its problems.

The mayor said the committee will be primarily "an action group," but might undertake some research or study projects aimed at long-range objectives.

Proper Care Is The Secret To Cutting Furnace Repair Bills

Today's modern, automatic heating for American homes is the best in the world. At fingertip touch of a thermostat, the reliable heating machinery in your utility room or basement gives you complete and automatic comfort all winter long.

You don't have to worry about it, that is, if you give this most important piece of equipment the kind of care and attention you do your car, the tools in your workshop and your wrist watch.

Steps to give top efficiency in your heating plant can easily save as much as $50 a year in fuel bills, according to Francis J. Schuster, president of the Oil Heat Institute of Indianapolis.

Some to this, in the form of a check-up and tune-up, you can do yourself, some needs an expert maintenance man.

Here's what you can do yourself: First, check your fuel supply. Because your oil tank holds this valuable reservoir of heat for you, see that your fuel dealer puts into it special additives recently developed. These inhibit any rusting, add to the long life of the tank and help keep the clear fuel flowing freely.

Next, check your heating plant, itself.

Most of this heating plant should be checked and tuned-up by a professional heating man, but even if you're not an expert mechanic there are some dollar-saving jobs you can do yourself, says the National Fuel Oil Council.

For example, the moving parts of any motors outside the fire chamber should get an annual lubrication with a light machine oil. Then if you have a warm air system, take out the air filters and clean or replace them.

Another step you can do yourself is to check your thermostat. It should always be in a location that's central and average for the house. Otherwise it may send signals to the heating plant which are wasteful because they call for too much heat, or uncomfortable because they call for too little.

The major jobs and the major money savings come, in the long run, from good care and tune-up by a qualified maintenance man. Choose well and depend on his knowledge. He will test your controls, see that the electric connections are fast and each control in balance with the others.

He'll try out your burner head — sometimes just a little bit more or a little less air makes the difference between a long winter at high efficiency and full comfort or less satisfaction. He'll find out about your drafts and your chimney and repair any leaks that might be wasting good heat.

A thorough job is best if you want tip-top efficiency for years ahead.

Indiana Central Has Record Enrollment

Indiana Central College reports record enrollments in both its day and evening classes for the fall semester.

Dr. Robert E. Cramer, dean and registrar, announced that the number of daytime students reached 741, compared with the previous high of 675 a year ago.

Harry McCuff, director of the evening division, said its registrations have reached 307, almost a hundred more than last year, and others are expected to enter before the Sept. 28 deadline.

New Negro Suburbia Answers Housing Need

NEW YORK — While far too many of the 16 million U.S. Negroes live in slums and cannot find the housing they need and more than four thousands are blazing a trail in fast-growing Negro suburbia, Time magazine says in a special report in its current issue.

"These developments," the article states, "are peopled by the newly prospering Negro middle-class, who all seem to have one thing in common—a fever for good living."

"Technicians, professional men, teachers, nurses, well-paid factory workers, federal employees settle where the air is clean and the schools good, join the PTA, buy power lawnmowers, curse the crabgrass, endorse the rights of commuting, barbecue their steaks, buy second cars and second TV sets and grumble about taxes."

More and more white builders, Time says, serving the demand for decent, moderate-priced Negro housing, have taken the plunge into the suburban market.

It has its special hazards; in some areas, white building inspectors and utility companies drag their feet when Negro tracts open. Negro mortgage money is often a stiff one percent or two percent more than for whites (it is easier to get loans for prospering Negroes in the Deep South than it is in Northern states).

But mortgage companies are beginning to realize that steadily employed Negroes are a good risk, the magazine feels.

ROTC Claims 249 New Students at Central State

WILBERFORCE, Ohio — Two hundred and forty high school graduates started their college careers and their introduction to Army life through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program as the fall semester began at Central State College on Sunday, Sept. 20, and 528 freshmen received their initial orientation.

This number is the largest freshman ROTC cadet class in the military science department in the history of Central State College, according to Lieut. Col. Roy W. Sorrell, professor of Military Science and Tactics at the college.

Increased in uniforms, weapons, military text books and instructors were readied earlier for their arrival. ROTC training introduces young men to the Army which is the ground component of our nation's military might.

Among these cadets will come some future officers receiving commissions in the United States Army Reserve.

Some, who are particularly outstanding, will become Regular Army officers who will spend 30 or more years pursuing military leadership as a profession.

ROTC was established at Central State College on Oct. 13, 1948, and has produced more than 300 army officers since that time.

Man to Face Judge For Fifth Time in 10-Year-Old Murder

VALPARAISO — A criminal court judge ruled this week that Robert Lee Johnson, South Bend, after four trials, four convictions and four verdict reversals must stand trial a fifth time on a 10-year-old murder charge.

Johnson is accused of murdering a cab driver in South Bend in 1949. His attorney had asked the judge to dismiss the charge because he had been held in jail through two terms of court.

Campanella to Be On 'Lassie' Show

NEW YORK (ANP) — Roy Campanella, former hard-hitting catcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, will appear as a guest star on the television show "Lassie" Sept. 27, on the CBS network (Channel 8).

Campanella, who helped the Dodgers win five pennants and a World Series during his major league career, plays himself as he visits Calverton, Lassie's home town, for the purpose of promoting Boys' League baseball.

During the visit, Campanella is called upon to help Lassie's little master, Timmy (Jon Provost), straighten out a couple of ilder boys who have been attempting to buy their way onto the local team.

"Sidelights" . . . . . business, industry and labor

By WM. A. CHAMBERS

E. B. NEWILL, GMC vice-president and general manager of the local Allison Division of GMC, recently disclosed that a modernized version of the external-combustion engine, that once turned packet-boat paddle wheels on the Mississippi soon may provide electrical energy for earth satellites.

Such an earth satellite power plant — which utilizes solar, nuclear or chemical energy as fuel and can operate unattended for two years or more — is being developed here by the Allison Division of GMC. This is in keeping with an agreement with N. V. Philips Gloeilampenfabrieken of Eindhoven, Holland and its North American Philips Co., Inc. of New York, N. Y.

Mr. Newill discloses that a laboratory model of the proposed satellite powerplant already has been operated successfully on solar radiant energy at the 217-acre Allison Research and Development Center.

Smaller than a desk telephone, the laboratory engine produces sufficient power through an alternating current generator to operate a small radio.

The basic principle of the powerplant dates back to 1816 when a Scottish clergyman, Robert Stirling, built a two-piston air engine weighing several hundred pounds. "But not until the application of recent advances in thermodynamics and modern mathematical analysis has it been possible to develop the engine from a relatively poor performance to the manner of efficiency which it has attained today," Mr. Newill stated.

JOHN POLLARD, credit manager of the International Corporation (subsidiary of the Eli Lilly Company), will preside as the chairman of the confab of the World Trade Committee of Indiana. Sessions will be held the week beginning Sept. 28.

The committee will survey the expanding world trade possibilities, in the next 10 years, of the State of Indiana. Top industrialists and economists of the state are taking cognizance of the fact that our state sold more than $500 million worth of products of factories and farms in the foreign market last year.

Again it was stated that the exports of Indiana are rising millions more each month. (We include herein, with the opening of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Seaway, and/or following the establishment of a seaport on Indiana soil, Indiana might really become "the Crossroads of America.")

One of the abiding champions of the idea of an Indiana seaport to handle or serve directly ocean-going commerce has been Gov. Harold W. Handley. Let us hope that he can induce the people of Indiana to embrace and follow up the idea to practical realization. The project holds great promises for industrial workers of our state, a matter of boosting the turnover of many types of industrial organizations. Also it would afford a larger outlet for the outstanding farm products of Hoosierland.

PRESTON G. WOOLF, World Trade Committee chairman, notes that "as long as the United States continues to be the leading nation of the world, our opportunities for world-wide business activities are excellent."

"If we cease to take advantage of the demand for our products in the markets of the world, then we will no longer be a world power," he observed.

FRANK E. MCKINNEY, chairman of the board and H. PRENTICE BROWNING, president of the American Fletcher National Bank & Trust Co., are scheduled to move their offices into Fidelity Building on Monument Circle over the weekend, Oct. 2-4. Harold Cross, executive vice-president of the merged bank organization, also will have his offices in the new Fidelity Building.

With a bridge extending over the alley between the old Fletcher Trust Building and the new Fidelity Building the two main nerve centers of the great financial organization will be coordinated. Other offices, including executive offices will be located in the new Fidelity Building, but the operation of the merged banks through 38 branches requires the use of a vast amount of housing space and a vast organization.

R. C. BECHERER, president of Link-Belt; Ray S. Wood, general manager, and R. E. Whitney, manager of the Ewart plant of the company, will be hosts on Thursday, Oct. 1 on the opening or a preview of the new Link-Belt plant. The plant at 7601 Rockville Road is termed the most modern bearing producing plant in the world.

A. R. COLLINS, vice-president and general manager of the local division, South Wind Division, of the Stewart-Warner Corp., announces two top appointments here. Leland E. Bass was named manager of the Aeronautical and Space Products Division. This division will conduct direct sales and engineering functions for aircraft and missiles. Mr. Bass is a graduate of Butler University.

William E. Jones was appointed to the post of manager of employee relations and industrial relations. Formerly he was associated with the Electric Auto-Lite Company, La Crosse, Wis., as director of personnel and industrial relations.

J. W. HEDGES, president of Hedges Pontiac, Inc., 3215 E. Washington St., was host recently to S. G. Douglas, Pontiac district representative. On the occasion, 12 members of the staff of the firm were presented with Service Craftsman awards by the Pontiac factory.

The awards were made for maintaining high standards in service technique. The 12 members of Hedges Pontiac staff, all graduates of the General Motors service training school, represent 96 years of Pontiac service.

Those receiving awards were Ed House, service manager, 10 years; Adam Dowdy, 12 years; Harry Wilkinson, 11 years; Harry Cheshire, 11 years; Ira Lowe, 10 years; John Lamberg, 10 years; Harold Neil, eight years; Emory Matison, 8 years; Ken Garrison, six years; Odus Law, four years; Hubert Rippey, three years and William Huntley, three years.

GOV. EDMUND G. BROWN of California, speaking recently before the third annual convention of the AFL-CIO held in San Francisco, charged that — "reactionary forces 'perverted' the nation's need for legitimate labor legislation in order to enact new economic weapons against labor."

Gov. Brown charged that "extremists in Congress took control in order to ram through the new labor law backed by the Administration and big business front groups."

Again he said, "the Hoffas must go," referring to James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters union and other union leaders accused of misconduct.

"But so must those who have used labor reform unfairly to interfere with matters which should be left to free private negotiations, between labor and management," Gov. Brown stated.

Court Asked to Void Anti-NAACP Arkansas Statute

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court of the United States last week was asked to invalidate the Little Rock and North Little Rock ordinances under which Mrs. Daisy Bates, Arkansas NAACP state president, and Mrs. Birdie Williams, president of the North Little Rock NAACP branch, were convicted and fined for refusal to disclose the names and addresses of NAACP members.

In a brief filed last week, the NAACP contends that the ordinances were enacted to strike down the convictions and to strike down the laws contrary to the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

Charged with violating ordinances requiring them to turn over to city officials the NAACP membership list, Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Williams were tried and convicted in municipal court, Dec. 1957. Mrs. Bates was fined $100 and Mrs. Williams $25. On appeal to the Circuit Court of Pulaski County, they were again convicted and each fined $25.

On Dec. 22, 1958 the Supreme Court of Arkansas, by a divided court, upheld the convictions and sentences.

The court, in its opinion, sought to distinguish the Arkansas ordinances from the Alabama case in which the United States Supreme Court ruled that the NAACP did not have to disclose the names of its members.

In the brief filed last week, the NAACP contends that the ordinances were enacted to strike down the convictions and to strike down the laws contrary to the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

"The record does reveal," the brief asserts, "that the ordinances were enacted to find out what was going on in the NAACP, but mere curiosity would not seem sufficient warrant for curbing freedom of speech and association or for invading the privacy of association which the Federal Constitution secures."

The NAACP further asserts that the United States Supreme Court ruling in the Alabama case applies likewise to the Arkansas cases in that "unwarranted interference with the free exercise of rights of freedom of speech and of association are involved."

BILLY GRAHAM VISITS LITTLE ROCK 'BOMBERS'

LITTLE ROCK (ANP) — "Evangelist" Billy Graham, who conducted religious services in this racial hot spot, took time out to visit the jail and say a prayer with each of the men accused of setting off a series of bombs on Labor Day in protest of such integration.

The youthful minister said he went to the jail at the request of a member of the committee which brought him to the city.

After talking with the accused, Graham said he found them "very humble and repentant."

Moreover, the brief points out, the tax provisions of the ordinance do not apply to the activities of a non-profit membership organization "whose primary objectives and principal activities are directed towards the improvement of the status of Negro citizens."

South Bend Group Sets Dinner Meet

SOUTH BEND — A "potluck" dinner and program has been set for Oct. 2 by the South Bend Urban League and Hering House Community Center, Inc.

The program, theme for which is "What's Our Line?", will begin at 6:30 p. m. in Cherry Hall, Cherry and Washington, and will include a flannel board presentation of the Council of Community Services by Rev. Vincent C. Thillman, C.S.S., pastor of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church.

A panel discussion of committee lines which develop and promote the agency's work will be a program highlight.

Also planned are announcements of special events and activities for fall and winter.

Mrs. William Ellis is chairman of the Group Activities Committee of the Urban League; Miss Ida Mitchell is group activities director and Dennis Dowdell is executive director of the Urban League and Hering House.

Former President Welcomes Delegates to Baptist Meet

KANSAS CITY — Former President Harry S. Truman extended a warm welcome to Rev. E. H. Branch and the 6,000 delegates to the National Baptist convention of America who met here last week at the Metropolitan Baptist Church.

The delegates attending the meeting, held at World War Memorial Auditorium, were thrilled to see and hear the former president of the United States. Mayor H. Rae Bartle, Judge Carl R. Johnson and other dignitaries were present.

The visitors were presented with a gold key to the city. In his welcome Mr. Truman stated, "I am happy to be able to be with you tonight. I am a Baptist by education and by the belief that John the Baptist recognized and baptized the savior of the world, Jesus."

"You should be proud of your color," Mr. Truman continued. "If I were black, red or yellow I would do everything I could to make people understand that what is in their hearts and minds is what counts with the Almighty God, and not the color of your skin."

DR. D. C. PETTAWAY, Little Rock, was re-elected as president of the convention. In his annual message he stated, "We are living in a great age, the greatest age the world has ever seen. It is great in advancement, great in discoveries, great in inventions, great in pleasure, great in wealth, great in science and learning, in fact, the world is great in everything except righteousness and the love of God."

He urged the delegates to keep fighting with love and prayers in their hearts, for in the end God will win the battle for us.

Mrs. H. L. E. Williams will head the junior women's convention, Rev. Robert Chew, the youth convention, Dr. M. A. B. Fuller, national Baptist senior women's convention, Rev. Ira I. Clark, brotherhood convention and Mrs. A. L. Lewis, children's department.

Latest News Poll Shows:

Public Backs Steel's Fight On Inflation

Readers of the San Francisco Chronicle, one of the nation's leading newspapers, recently were invited to give their opinions on major issues in the steel strike. The results of the poll, and an accompanying editorial, are reproduced here with permission of The Chronicle.

The opinions expressed were overwhelmingly in favor of the steel companies' determined opposition to the inflationary wage demands of the Union leaders. The results agree with surveys by newspapers in other parts of the country, and by independent opinion research organizations.

Clearly America wants a non-inflationary settlement of the steel strike.

Public Opinion On Steel Strike

PUBLIC OPINION in Northern California, as revealed by respondents to the August 10 Chronicle Poll, runs in favor of management arguments and against union arguments in the steel strike.

The strength of popular agreement with management's case in the dispute can be seen in a glance at the percentage figures on the ballot in the adjoining columns. We confess to some surprise at the fact that the tide of opinion should run against labor's case in every one of the first five categories, but that is surely what the responses indicate.

For example, 47 per cent say the union bears the main responsibility for the failure to reach agreement prior to the outbreak of the strike. While this is short of a majority of all votes, it is still almost double the percentage of those who feel management was responsible.

One of the most decisive votes on the entire ballot shows 62 per cent disagreeing with the union contention that wages should be raised to offset the rise in living costs. Almost exactly the same percentage agrees with management's contention that wage increases demanded by the unions would seriously aggravate inflation. Sixty-six per cent feel that, if granted, wage increases would create a pattern for inflationary demands in other industries.

The steelworkers' union leadership clearly believed that when the announcement of record steel profits hit the public, it would strengthen the argument for a wage increase. Yet the poll shows only one-third thought this high-profits argument valid, while more than half thought it irrelevant.

The great majority agrees that the Government should not intercede to settle the strike by using its full powers under the Taft-Hartley Act. This is covered in point 6. It is the only point on the ballot on which the views that have been expressed by the union clearly prevailed.
